

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. By C. H. GRANDGENT:

PREFACE.:

This volume is the result of an attempt to put into convenient form and the smallest possible compass all the grammar that the ordinary student of Italian will need. Short as the book is, it contains some paragraphs which beginners will probably skip: the longer lists of words and endings, and a great part of the chapters on suffixes and irregular verbs will be useful mainly for reference. The vocabularies cover the twenty-one exercises; they are not intended to include words explained in the notes, nor proper names that are exactly the same in Italian and in English.

I have endeavored to make the book represent the Italian language as it is spoken and written at the present day; the exercises are taken chiefly from reading-books lately prepared for Tuscan schools. Still, I have tried to give also as many obsolete forms as students of the Italian classics will require.

It has been my aim throughout to make the rules clear for all classes of pupils, even for those ignorant of other foreign languages, provided they understand the technical words commonly used in grammars. With this object in view, I have ascribed to the Italian vowels the pronunciation of the English ones that are most like them: an accurate description of the Italian sounds would, I fear, prove confusing to beginners who have had no training in phonetics. It will be easy for the instructor to explain not only the vowels, but some of the consonants, and the division of words into syllables, much better than can be done in a book like this.

The authorities I have consulted most are the dictionaries of Fanfani, Rigutini and Fanfani, Fornari (Nuovo Bazzarini), and Tommaseo and Bellini. I have made but little use of other grammars; I am, however, indebted to Toscani for some ideas and a few of my examples. The chapters on syntax, and the treatment of irregular verbs, pronouns, suffixes, and the plural of words in -co and -go are almost entirely the result of original work.

In conclusion, I wish to express my gratitude to Professor Nash, of Harvard, to my friend and teacher, Sig. Filippo Orlando, of Florence, and to the gentlemen who assisted me in correcting the proof-sheets; and I wish above all to thank Professor Sheldon, of Harvard, and Professor Bendelari, of Yale, without whose aid and encouragement I should scarcely have ventured to offer this book to the public.

ITALIAN GRAMMAR.

PRONUNCIATION.

- 1. The Italian alphabet has the same letters as the English, except that k, w, x, and y do not occur in modern Italian.
- 2. The Italians distinguish seven vowels: a, close e, open e, i, close o, open o, u; each of which always has the same sound, no matter what may be its position in the word, and never tends, as do the English long vowels, to become a diphthong. Italian vowels are all pronounced very quickly; hence there is but little difference in quantity between accented and unaccented sounds. English-speaking students must carefully avoid drawling the accented and slighting the unaccented syllables; they should try to give to every Italian vowel about the length of i in "bitter."
- A is nearly like a in "father": as fava, canna, cassa, palla.
- E, close, is nearly like a in "fate": as beve, vere, stelle, messe.
- E, open, may be formed by trying to pronounce e in "bell" with the mouth very wide open: as bella, amena, fera, pensa.

- I is nearly like ee in "feet": as miri, vini, fissi, spilli.
- O, close, is nearly like o in "mope": as dopo, dove, bollo, sotto.
- O, open, is nearly like aw in "saw" pronounced with the mouth wide open: as no, odi, poi, donna.
 - U is nearly like oo in "boot": as una, cura, nulla, ruppi.
- a. The letters i and u are sometimes used to represent consonant sounds (see 4); but in formulating rules they are always counted as yowels.
- 3. As close and open vowels are not distinguished in spelling, some rules are necessary:—
- (1) Unaccented e and o are always close: as mare, "sea"; amo, "I love."
- (2) E and o are close in all monosyllables * ending in a consonant: as con, "with"; non, "not"; per, "for."
- (3) In monosyllables * and oxytones † ending in a vowel, final e is close, final o is open: as che, "what"; me, "me"; re, "king"; credè, "he believed"; perchè, "why"; do, "I give"; Po, "Po"; sarò, "I shall be"; andò, "he went." Exceptions: final e is open in è = "is," re = "re," interjections (as aimè, "alas"; chè, "nonsense"), proper names (as Noè, "Noah"), and foreign words (as caffè, "coffee"); final o is close in lo and o.
- (4) Accented e and o are always open in the groups ie and uo: as piede, "foot"; fuoco, "fire." E and o standing for ie and uo are open: as ven = viene, "he comes"; cor = cuore, "heart."

^{*} Not including shortened forms of words that regularly have more than one syllable.

[†] Words accented on the last syllable.

(5) In words that have always formed a part of the spoken language, accented e is nearly always close when it represents Latin \bar{e} or \check{e} , open when it represents Latin \check{e} or \check{e} ; accented o is nearly always close when it represents Latin \bar{o} or \check{u} , open when it represents Latin \check{o} or au. In book words accented e and o are usually open.

In all cases not covered by the first three rules, the quality of e and o will be marked in this book, an acute accent (') denoting the close, a circumflex (^) the open sound: as avére, "to have"; méno, "less"; tiêne, "he holds"; liêto, "happy"; poêta, "poet"; óra, "hour"; mólto, "much"; buôno, "good"; pôco, "little"; môto, "motion."

4. B, f, m, p, q, v are pronounced as in English.

C before e or i sounds like ch in "chin"; elsewhere it is always like English k: as cima, "top"; cóme, "how"; dólce, "sweet." G before e or i sounds like g in "gem"; elsewhere it is always like g in "go": as gatto, "cat"; gênte, "people"; spingi, "push."

- a. A cc or a gg before e or i has merely the sound of ch in "chin" or g in "gem" prolonged: as facce, "faces"; légge, "law."
- D, 1, n, t are pronounced further forward in the mouth than in English; the tip of the tongue should touch the back of the upper front teeth: as alto, "high"; dato, "given"; luna, "moon"; nudo, "naked"; tuôno, "thunder."

H is always silent: as ahi, "oh!" ha, "he has."

I, unaccented, before a vowel, sounds like English y: as iêri, "yesterday"; paio, "pair"; più, "more." In the groups cia, cio, ciu, gia, gio, giu, an unaccented i serves only to show that the c or g is soft: as faccia,

"face"; guancia, "cheek"; ciò, "that"; giù, "down"; mangia, "eat"; raggio, "ray."

J is merely another way of writing i.

N before a q or a hard c or g has the sound of English ng: as banca (bang-ka), "bank"; dunque (dung-kwe), "therefore"; lungo (lung-go), "long."

R is always rolled, the point of the tongue vibrating against the teeth: as caro, "dear"; rósso, "red"; per, "for." When r is double or followed by a consonant, the trill is prolonged: as carro, "cart"; burro, "butter"; marróne, "chestnut"; carne, "meat"; pôrta, "door."

S is generally pronounced nearly like English s in "see," but with a somewhat sharper sound: as sô, "I know"; spillo, "pin."

Initial s before a sonant (b, d, g, l, m, n, r, v) has a sound intermediate between s and English z: as sdrucciolare, "to slip"; slitta, "sleigh."

A single s between vowels has, in most words, the sound of English z: as caso, "case"; cdusa, "cause"; viso, "face." But in the following cases it is pronounced like s in "see," "mason":—

- a. In ásino, casa, Chiusi, côsa, così, desidêrio, naso, parasito, péso, Pisa, pisêllo, pôsa, ripôso, riso, susina, and their derivatives, and in many uncommon words.
- b. After the prefixes de-, di-,* pre-, pro-, re-, ri-, tra-*: as desistere, diségno, presúmere, prosegúire, reservare, risôlvere, trasudare.
- c. In the adjective ending -óso and the adjective and substantive ending -ése: as noióso, "troublesome"; inglése, "English"; mése, "month." But in cortése, francése, lucchése, marchése, paése, palése, the s is like English z.

^{*} Not to be confounded with dis-, tras-: disonore, trasandare.

d. In the preterites and past participles of chièdere, chiùdere, nascondere, porre, radere, ridere, rimanère, rispondere, rodere, and all verbs in -endere; and in their compounds and derivatives: as chièsi, socchiuso, nascose, risposero, rasoio, rimase, corrisposi, rosero, accesi, reso, scesa. Exceptions to this rule are deridere, verbs in -cludere, and derivatives of rodere.

U, unaccented, before a vowel, sounds like English w: as buôno, "good"; guardare, "to look"; può, "he can."

Z and zz are generally pronounced like a long and vigorous ts: as alzare, "to lift"; azióne, "action"; prêzzo, "price"; zto, "uncle."

In the following cases, however, z and zz sound like a prolonged dz:—

- a. In azzurro, dozzina, mêzzo, pranzo, ribrézzo, romanzo, zêlo, and many less common words.
- b. In verbs in -izzare (as utilizzare, "to utilize"); except attizzare, dirizzare, guizzare, rizzare, stizzare, and their compounds, and a few uncommon words.
 - 5. The following combinations are to be noted:—

Ch (used only before e and i) is always like English k: as fichi (plural of fico, "fig"). Sch is like sk: as schérzo, "sport."

Gh (used only before e and i) is always like English g in "go": as aghi (plural of agv, "needle").

GII (written g1 if the following vowel be i) is nearly like English lli in "million": as figlio, "son"; figli, "sons." But in Anglia, geroglifico, glicerina, negligere and its derivatives, and a few uncommon words borrowed from the Greek or Latin, gl is like English gl.

Gn is nearly like ni in "onion": as δgni , "every."

Qu is always like kw: as quésto, "this."

So before e and i is nearly like sh in "ship": as uscire, "to go out." Before all other letters it is pronounced sh: as scuθla, "school"; schérno, "contempt."

6. Every letter in Italian is distinctly and separately sounded; the only exceptions are h, silent i (see 4), and the combinations mentioned in 5. Ex.: arte, "art"; firma, "signature"; furto, "theft"; giórno, "day"; vêrso, "toward"; andái, "I went"; áura, "breeze"; bugíe, "lies"; Eurôpa, "Europe"; miêi, "my"; paúra, "fear"; sentíi, "I felt"; suôi, "his."

Where a double consonant is written, both letters must be sounded, the first at the end of the preceding, the second at the beginning of the following syllable: as anno, "year"; babbo, "father"; fatto, "done"; mésso, "put"; quéllo, "that." For rr, zz, and soft cc and gg, see 4.

- L, m, n, and r, when preceded by an accented vowel and followed by another consonant, are prolonged: as alto (all-to), "high"; sempre (sêmm-pre), "always"; tanto (tann-to), "so much"; parte (parr-te), "part."
- 7. The accent is nearly always the same as in Latin. In this book it will always be noted. Of the signs written here, students are to use only the grave (`), which is placed on the last syllable of oxytones and on some monosyllables; Italian writers do not agree as to the use of the other marks.
- 8. Italian words are divided in such a way that, if possible, every syllable shall begin with a consonant: as ta-vo-li-no, "table"; frat-tán-to, "meanwhile"; al-l'uô-mo, "to the man"; nar-rá-re, "to relate"; mêz-zo, "half"; các-cia, "hunt"; ôg-gi, "to-day."

In the groups s + consonant, consonant + r, those mentioned in $\mathbf{5}$, and cl, fl, gl, pl, both consonants belong to the following syllable. I = y and u = w go with the following vowel; di, du, ei, eu, oi are not separated. Ex.: al-l' du-ra, a-vrd, bi-sd-gro, ca-stl-gdh, del-l' dc-gro, u-gro, u-u

ARTICLES.

9. The article is not declined, but it agrees with its substantive in gender and number.

THE DEFINITE ARTICLE.

- 10. Masculine: -
- a. Sing. il, pl. i, before a word beginning with any consonant except s impure * and z.
 - b. Sing. lo, pl. gli, before a vowel or s impure or z.†

Before a vowel lo becomes l'; gli becomes gl' before i.

Ex.: Il pádre, the father; i pádri, the fathers.

Lo stesso padre, the same father.

Lo sciame, the swarm; gli sciami, the swarms.

Lo zio, the uncle; gli zii, the uncles.

L' uômo, the man; gl' insêtti, the insects.

11. Feminine:

Sing. la, pl. le.

Before a vowel la becomes l'; le becomes l' before e.

Ex.: La mádre, the mother; le mádri, the mothers.

L' ôra, the hour; le ôre, the hours; l'èrbe, the herbs.

^{*} That is, s followed by another consonant.

[†] Li is sometimes used for gli. Some writers use il, i before z and before see- or sei-.

12. When the definite article is preceded by one of the prepositions di, da, a, in, con, su, per, the article and preposition are generally contracted into one word, as shown in the following table (con, per are often uncontracted):—

	IL	I	ro	GLI	LA	LE	Ľ,
Di , of	del	déi or de'	dėllo	dėgli	délla	dèlle	dell'
Da, by	dal	dái or da'	dållo	dágli	dálla	dálle	dall'
A, to	al	di or a'	állo	ágli	ålla	álle	all
In, in	nel	néi or ne'	nėllo	nėgli	nélla	nélle	nell'
Con, with	col	coi or co'	cóllo	cógli	cólla	cólle	coll
Su, on	sul	súi or su'	súllo	súgli	súlla	sülle	sull
Per, for	pel	pėi or pe'	per lo	per gli	per la	per le	per l'

Ex.: Del pádre, of the father; dái pádri, by the fathers.

Allo spêcchio, to the mirror; négli spêcchi, in the mirrors.

Côlla mádre, with the mother; côlle mádri, with the mothers.

Sull' uômo, on the man; per gli uômini, for the men.

a. The word "some" is frequently rendered in Italian by di with the definite article. This is called the partitive genitive.

Ex.: Dátemi del vino, give me some wine. Délle bêlle côse, some fine things.

- 13. In the following cases the definite article is used in Italian, though not in English:—
- a. Before the possessive pronouns: as il nostro giardino, "our garden"; i suoi fratelli, "his brothers." When, however, the possessive qualifies an otherwise unmodified noun in the singular expressing relationship, the article is generally omitted: as mia madre, "my mother." For a fuller statement see 45, a.
 - b. Before an abstract noun or one denoting a whole class.

Ex.: L'uômo propône, man proposes.

I fiòri nascono dal séme, flowers spring from the seed.

Gli uccèlli hanno le dli, birds have wings.

La môrte è il peggiòre déi mali, death is the worst of evils.

- c. In general before a noun used with any adjective that does not express quantity.
 - Ex.: L'anno scorso, last year; gli uomini buoni, good men.
 Il povero Luigi non viêne, poor Lewis doesn't come.
- d. Before a title followed by a proper name: as la regina Vittôria, "Queen Victoria"; il signôr Brúni, "Mr. Brown."
- e. Before family names; often before given names of women; occasionally before given names of well-known men.

Ex.: Il Bidnchi è môrto, White is dead; la Pâtti cânta, Patti sings. Conôsco l' Olivia, I know Olivia; Dânte or il Dânte, Dante.

f. Before names of countries and continents: as la Svizzera, "Switzerland"; all' Itàlia, "to Italy"; per l' Eurôpa, "for Europe." But the article is omitted after in in phrases that denote going to or dwelling in a country, and often after di when di with the name of a country is equivalent to an adjective of nationality: as vádo in Germánia, "I go to Germany"; rimángo in Fráncia, "I remain in France"; la regina d' Inghiltèrra, "the queen of England"; il vino di Spágna, "the wine of Spain."

In all the above cases (beginning with 13, a) the article, unless it would be employed in English, is omitted when the noun is used as a vocative or is modified by a numeral or a pronominal adjective.

- Ex.: a. Questa súa ôpera, this work of his.
 - b. Vi sono sette virtù, there are seven virtues.
 - c. Pôvero padre, poor father!
 - d. Signòra Monti, come sta, Mrs. Monti, how do you do?
 - e. Quel Néri è maláto, that Black is ill.
 - f. Itália, ti rivêdo, Italy, I see thee again.

- g. Viêni, amico mio, come, my friend.
- h. Ha parecchi vizi, he has several bad habits.
- i. Dúe bellissimi cani, two very fine dogs.

THE INDEFINITE ARTICLE.

- 14. Masculine:
- a. Un before a vowel or any consonant except s impure and z.
- b. Uno before s impure or z. *

Ex.: Un pádre, a father; un uômo, a man. Un anêllo, a ring; úno spêcchio, a mirror. Uno sciáme, a swarm; úno sio, an uncle.

15. Feminine: —

Una, which becomes un' before a vowel.

Ex.: Úna mádre, a mother; un' óra, an hour.

- 16. In the following cases the indefinite article, though expressed in English, is omitted in Italian:—
- a. Before a predicate noun expressing occupation, rank, or nationality, and not accompanied by an adjective.
 - Ex.: Egli è poèta, he is a poet; sono marchèse, I am a marquis. Siète italiano, you are an Italian.
- b. Generally before an antecedent (of a relative clause) used in apposition to a preceding noun modified by a definite article or a demonstrative pronoun.
 - Ex.: L' Árno, fiume che traversa Firenze, the Arno, a river which traverses Florence.
 - c. After da meaning "as," "like," or "for." See 79, g.

Ex.: Da uômo, like a man.

^{*} Some writers use un before z and before sce- or sci-.

NOUNS.

² See 12, a.

17. Italian nouns are not declined. Possession is denoted by the preposition di: as lo spêcchio di mio pádre, "my father's looking-glass."

GENDER.

18. There are no neuter nouns in Italian.*

Nouns denoting males and females keep their natural gender, whatever their termination may be: except guida, "guide"; guárdia, "guard"; persóna, "person"; sentinélla, "sentinel"; spia, "spy"; which are feminine.

- Ex.: Il fratèllo, the brother; mia sorèlla, my sister.

 Il poèta, the poet; la poetéssa, the poetess.

 Úna spia, a spy; la nôstra guida, our guide.
- 19. Of nouns denoting objects without sex some are masculine, some feminine. Their gender can often be determined by the final letter. All Italian nouns end in $a, e, i, o, \text{ or } u: \uparrow$ —
- a. Those ending in a are feminine; except colèra, "cholera," qualcôsa, "something," Greek neuters in -ma,‡ many geographical names, and a few other words, mostly foreign.

Ex.: Un' ora, an hour; un telegramma, a telegram. Il Canadà, Canada; il sofà, the sofa.

b. Of those ending in e and i some are masculine, some feminine. All ending in -ziône, -giône, or -údine are feminine.

Ex.: Il fiume, the river; la pace, peace.

Un dì, a day; una metropoli, a metropolis.

La ragione, the reason; la servitudine, service.

c. Those ending in o are masculine; except máno, "hand."

Ex.: Il ginôcchio, the knee; la mano, the hand.

^{*} Latin neuters become masculine in Italian; masculines and feminines retain their Latin gender. This rule has very few exceptions.

[†] A few foreign nouns used in Italian end in a consonant: as lapis, "pencil" (i lapis, "the pencils"). Nouns in -0 or -e often drop that vowel if the preceding consonant is l, n, or r: as cane=can, "dog."

[‡] Mostly scientific terms.

d. Those ending in u are feminine; except soprappiù, "surplus," and a few foreign words.

Ex.: La virtù, virtue; il bambù, bamboo.

20. Any other part of speech (except an adjective*) used as a noun must be masculine.

Ex.: Il viaggiáre, travelling.

21. Masculine names of trees in o or e have a feminine form in a or e respectively, denoting their fruit; but il dattero, "date," il fico, "fig," il limone, "lemon," il pomo, "apple," are always the same, whether denoting the tree or the fruit.

Ex.: Un susino, a plum-tree; una susina, a plum.

Il nôce, the walnut-tree; la nôce, the walnut.

Quésti fichi, these fig-trees, these figs.

NUMBER.

22. Feminines in unaccented a form their plural by changing a into e.

Ex.: La stráda, the street; le stráde, the streets. Una bugia, a lie; le bugie, lies.

a. Feminines in -ca and -ga form their plural in -che and -ghe respectively (the h being inserted merely to indicate that the c and g keep their hard sound).

Ex.: Un' ôca, a goose; môlte ôche, many geese.

La bottéga, the shop; parécchie bottéghe, several shops.

^{*} Adjectives of course have the gender of the nouns they represent.

- b. Nouns in unaccented -cia and -gia form their plural in -ce and -ge respectively.*
 - Ex.: La guáncia, the cheek; le guánce, the cheeks. Úna ciliègia, a cherry; tánte ciliège, so many cherries.
- 23. Masculines in unaccented a and all nouns in unaccented o and e (not ie) form their plural in i. \dagger
 - Ex.: Un poèta, a poet; due poèti, two poets.

 Lo zio, the uncle; gli zii, the uncles.

 La máno, the hand; le mie máni, my hands.

 Un mése, a month; tre mési, three months.

 La cornice, the frame; quáttro cornici, four frames.
- a. Masculines in -ca and -ga form their plural in -chi and -ghi respectively.
 - Ex.: Il monárca, the monarch; i monárchi, the monarchs. Il collèga, the colleague; i collèghi, the colleagues.
- b. Nouns in unaccented -io form their plural by changing -io to -i (often written t, j, or ii).
 - Ex.: Lo specchio, the mirror; gli specchi, the mirrors.

 Il ciliègio, the cherry-tree; i ciliègi, the cherry-trees.
- c. Nouns in -go form their plural in -ghi. Nouns in -co form their plural in -chi if the penult is accented, otherwise in -ci.
 - Ex.: Il castigo, the punishment; i castighi, the punishments.

 Un catálogo, a catalogue; dúe catáloghi, two catalogues.

 Il fico, the fig; cinque fichi, five figs.

 Antico, ancient; gli antichi, the ancients.

 Un mèdico, a doctor; sèi mèdici, six doctors.

This rule has a number of exceptions. In the following lists, words whose irregular plural is rare are omitted.

^{*} Provincia has provincie. In general borrowed words and words whose plural is necessarily very rare keep the i: audácia, audácia.

[†] In old Italian and in poetry words in -ello and -ale often form their plural in -egli or -ei, -agli or -ai: capéllo, capéi.

- (1) Compound nouns in -logo denoting persons engaged in the sciences, and all compound nouns in -fago form their plural in -gi.*
 - Ex.: Il fisiòlogo, the physiologist; i fisiòlogi, physiologists.

 Antropòfago, cannibal; antropòfagi, cannibals.
- (2) The following words form their plural in -ci, although the penult is accented:—

amíco grêco inimíco nemíco pôrco†

Grêco has a regular plural in the expression vini grêchi.

(3) The following words form their plural in -chi, although the penult is unaccented:—

ábbaco	fármaco	lástrico	rammárico	stráscico
acrôstico	índaco	mánico	rísico	tôssico
cárico ‡	intônaco	párroco	sciático	tráffico
diméntico ‡	intrínseco	pízzico	stômaco	válico §

Acrôstico and fármaco have also regular plurals.

d. Some masculines in o have an irregular plural in a; this plural is feminine. They are: centináio, "hundred"; migliáio, "thousand"; miglio, "mile"; páio, "pair"; uôvo, "egg."

Many masculines in o have this irregular feminine plural in a besides the regular masculine plural in i. The most common are: braccio, "arm"; dito, "finger"; frutto, "fruit"; ginocchio, "knee"; grido, "shout"; lábbro, "lip"; légno, "wood"; mêmbro, "member"; múro, "wall"; orécchio, "ear"; osso, "bone."

^{*} Likewise the rare or obsolete words: flemmagogo, idragogo, metallurgo, sdrgo (also reg. plur.), sortilego. "Magicians" = mdghi, "magi" = mdgi.

[†] Likewise the rare words: aprico, lombrico (also reg.), uvamico, vico.

[‡] Likewise its compounds.

[§] Likewise the rare or obsolete words: filáccico, mántaco (also reg.), estático, sfiláccico, stático (noun), úncico.

Ex.: Un páio, a pair; sêtte páia, seven pairs.

Il mio bráccio, my arm; le túe bráccia, thy arms.

Il lábbro, the lip; le lábbra or i lábbri, the lips.

Un ôsso, a bone; le ôssa or gli ôssi, the bones.

Bráccio, ginocchio, lábbro, and orécchio nearly always have the irregular plural when denoting the two arms, knees, lips, or ears belonging to the same body.

24. All monosyllables, and all nouns ending in i, ie, u, an accented vowel, or a consonant, are invariable.

Ex.: Il re, the king; i re, the kings.

Il brindisi, the toast; i brindisi, the toasts.

Úna spêcie, a kind; ôtto spêcie, eight kinds.

La virtù, virtue; le virtù, the virtues.

Úna città, a city; dièci città, ten cities.

25. The following nouns have irregular plurals: búe, "ox," pl. buôi; dío, "god," pl. dêi*; móglie, "wife," pl. mógli; uômo, "man," pl. uômini.

Mignonettes are 2 born from the seed. The seed, placed under ground, has sprouted; from one side it-has put-out shoots, which have-spread-out through the ground, and from one side it-has³ sent forth the stalk, the little-branches,⁷ the leaves, and⁹ the flowers. Like mignonettes, 8 many other 28 plants, herbs, and 9 flowers spring 10 from the seed. Flowers, herbs, grain, and trees arecalled 11 vegetables. Vegetables have 3 roots, trunk, branches, twigs, leaves, flowers, and fruit. Plants first produce 12 the flower and then the fruit. The trunk or stalk of plants is 2 that 13 which rests 14 on the roots and 15 comes 16 out from the ground; 17 it-iscovered 18 with 19 branches and with 19 leaves. Of the stalk of plants, — for instance, of the trunk of trees, — we-make-use 20 for many purposes; we-make²¹ furniture, doors, windows, the beams that support²² ceilings, ships, carriages, and⁹ cars. ADJECTIVES.

- 26. Adjectives agree with their substantives in gender and number. An adjective modifying two nouns of different genders is generally put in the masculine plural.
 - Ex.: Il gátto è pulito, the cat is neat; stánze pulite, neat rooms. Úna cása e un giardino bellini, a pretty house and garden.
- 27. Numeral and pronominal adjectives and the commonest adjectives of size and quantity precede their nouns; adjectives of nationality, shape, and material follow; bello, bulno, and adjectives whose use is prompted by emotion, generally precede. Otherwise, of the noun and adjective, the one that contains the chief idea comes last.
 - Ex.: La seconda vôlta, the second time; questa vôlta, this time.

 Trôppo páne, too much bread; le grándi città, great cities.

 Questa pálla rotônda, this round ball.

 La buôna mádre, the good mother; pôver uômo, poor man!

 La vôstra gentilissima lettera, your kind letter.

 È un uômo gentilissimo, he is a kind man.

GENDER AND NUMBER

- 28. Adjectives ending in o are masculine, and form their feminine in a. Adjectives in e are invariable in the singular.
 - Ex.: Buôno stivalétto, good boot; buôna scárpa, good shoe.
 Ragázzo felice, happy boy; ragázza felice, happy girl.
- 29. Adjectives form their plural in the same way as nouns (see 22, 23).
 - Ex.: Sèi buôni cassettóni, six good bureaus; ôtto buône séggiole, eight good chairs.

Dúe uômini felici, two happy men tre dônne felici, three happy women.

- a. Parécchi, "several," has for its feminine parécchie.
- b. Quálche, "some," is used only in the singular, even when the meaning is plural: as quálche vôlta, "sometimes."
- c. When preceding a noun, bêllo, "beautiful," has forms similar to those of the definite article; and Sánto, "Saint," and gránde, "great," have corresponding forms in the singular.* Bubno, "good," when preceding its noun, has a singular similar to the indefinite article. The masculine of these words (which is the only irregular part) is, therefore, as follows:—

Before any consonant except s impure or z: bel, San, gran, buon; pl. bêi, Santi, grandi, buôni.

Before s impure or z: bêllo, Sánto, gránde, buôno; pl. bêgli, Sánti, grándi, buôni.

Before a vowel: bell', Sant', grand', buon; pl. bêgli, Santi, grandi, buoni.

When used after a noun or in the predicate these adjectives have their full forms (bêllo, bêlli, Sánto, Sánti, gránde, grándi, buôno, buôni).

Ex.: Un bel quadro, a fine picture; due bei letti, two fine beds.

Un bêllo scaffdle, a fine bookcase; quáttro bêgli stiváli, four fine boots.

Un bell' dndito, a fine hall; môlti bêgli orolôgi, many fine clocks.

Una bêlla stúfa, a fine stove; parècchie bêlle tênde, several fine curtains.

Il paldzzo è bèllo, the palace is fine; le sèdie son bèlle, the chairs are beautiful.

San Piètro, Sánto Stèfano e Sant' Antônio, St. Peter, St. Stephen, and St. Anthony.

Un gran fuòco, a big fire; grandi camini, big fire-places.

^{*} Gran is, moreover, often used in the fem. sing. (for grande), and sometimes in the plur. (for grandi); it is regularly used before fem. sing. nouns in -e, and in the expression una gran bêlla (or brutta) côsa.

Il grande scaldino, the big foot-warmer; dièci grandi spilli, ten big pins.

Un grande sciame, a great swarm; il grande stpolo, the large bung.

Un grand' armddio, a big wardrobe; vėnti grandi alberi, twenty big trees.

Una grande camera, a large bedroom; cinque grandi finestre, five big windows.

Il salotto è molto grande, the parlor is very large.

Un buon lúme, a good lamp; buôni fiammiferi, good matches.

Il buôno sgabello, the good stool; nôve buôni scoldri, nine good pupils.

Il buon ôlio, the good oil; parêcchi buôni aghi, several good needles.

Úna buôna cucina, a good kitchen; le buône candèle, the good candles.

Il bambino è buôno, the child is good.

30. Any adjective of either gender or either number may be used as a noun.

Ex.: I buôni, the good; la bêlla, the beautiful woman.

COMPARISON.

- 31. All Italian adjectives form their comparative by prefixing più "more," and their superlative by prefixing the definite article to the comparative. When the superlative immediately follows the noun, this article is omitted.
 - Ex.: Bêllo, beautiful; più bêllo, more beautiful; il più bêllo, the most beautiful.

Lúngo, long; più lúngo, longer; il più lúngo, the longest. La via più córta, the shortest way.

a. The following adjectives have an irregular comparison in addition to the regular one:—

Alto, high; più alto or superiore; il più alto or il superiore. Basso, low; più basso or inferiore; il più basso or l'inferiore. Buôno, good; più buôno or migliore;* il più buôno or il migliore.

Cattivo, bad; più cattivo or peggiore;* il più cattivo or il peggiore.

Gránde, big; più gránde or maggiore; il più gránde or il maggiore.

Piccolo, small; più piccolo or minore; il più piccolo or il minore.

"Higher" and "lower" are commonly rendered by più álto and più básso; superiòre and inferiòre generally mean "superior" and "inferior." Migliòre and peggiòre are more used than più budno and più cattivo, which have the same sense. "Larger" and "smaller" are generally più gránde and più piccolo; maggiòre and minòre usually signify "older" and "younger."

Ex.: Noi siamo migliori di loro, we are better than they.

Questa sala da pranzo è la più grande, this dining-room is the biggest.

Piètro è il fratello minore, Peter is the youngest brother.

32. The adverb "less" is expressed by méno, "least" by il méno. "As . . . as," "so . . . as" are tánto . . . quánto, tánto . . . cóme, così . . . cóme, or simply quánto.

Ex.: Quella stanza è la meno bellina, that room is the least pretty.

Paolo non è tanto buono come Roberto, Paul isn't so good as Robert.

Giovanni è alto quanto Filippo, John is as tall as Philip.

33. "Than" is che.

Ex.: L'albêrgo è più grande che bêllo, the hotel is bigger than it is beautiful.

'But before a noun, a pronoun, or a numeral "than" is rendered by the preposition di (see 12). If, however, this "than" is preceded by a word meaning "rather," it is translated che.

^{*} The adverbs "better" and "worse" are mêglio and pêggio.

Ex.: Riccardo è peggibre di Guglièlmo, Richard is worse than William.

Với siếte più ricchi di nói, you are richer than we.

Méno di cinque, less than five.

Piuttôsto la môrte che il disonore, rather death than dishonor.

Before an inflected verb "than" is che non or di quel che.

Ex.: Abbdia più che non môrde, he barks more than he bites. Prométto mêno di quel che do, I promise less than I give.

34. "The more... the more," "the less... the less" are più... più, méno... méno. "More" and "less" after a number are di più, di méno. In speaking of time, "longer" after a negative is più.

Ex.: Più stúdio, più imparo, the more I study, the more I learn.

Trênta giòrni di mêno, thirty days less.

Non lo vediamo più, we see him no longer.

EXERCISE 5.

Il sóle è 1 un glôbo grandíssimo e sêmpre infocáto: ésso è 1 gránde óltre un milióne di vôlte più délla têrra; e díre 2 che a' nôstri ôcchi apparísce 3 tánto più píccolo! EXERCISE 6.

The moon is 1 in the middle of 2 the sky. The moon is 1 round; it-looks 3 perfectly round like a melon. And it-looks, 3 too, as big as a melon. The moon seems 4 little because it-is 1 far, far from us who are 5 on the earth. The moon renders 6 a great service to men: because when everything is 1 dark, it 7 illumines 8 with its beautiful light the earth which we-inhabit. 9 The stars are 10 larger than the moon, but to-look-at-them 11 they-seem 12 smaller, because they-are 10 so-much 13 further than the moon. The most beautiful, 14 the most intense 14 light comes 15 from the sun.

AUGMENTATIVES AND DIMINUTIVES; NUMERALS.

AUGMENTATIVE AND DIMINUTIVE ENDINGS.

35. Instead of a word expressing size or quality the Italians often use a suffix. This suffix may be added to a noun, an adjective, or an adverb. When added to an adjective, and generally when added to a noun, it takes the gender of the word to which it is affixed: occasionally, however, a suffix with masculine termination is added to a feminine noun, which thereby becomes masculine. A word loses its final vowel before a suffix; but the preceding consonant, if it be c or g, must keep its former quality: as Carlo + ino = Carlino, vóce + óne = vocióne, pôco + ino = pochino, adágio + ino = adagino.

- a. The commonest ending is -lssimo (fem. -lssima), "very," which in general is added only to adjectives and adverbs. Adverbs in -ménte add the -lssima before the -ménte (see 85). Any adjective may take it, and it is very often used in cases where it would be entirely superfluous in English.
 - Ex.: Largo, wide; larghissimo, very wide.

 Bêne, well; benissimo, very well.

 Grande, big; grandissimo, very big.
 - Fa un têmpo bellissimo, it's beautiful weather. Bellissimamênte, very beautifully.
- b. The principal suffix denoting bigness is -ône; it is always masculine, but has a rare feminine form, -ôna,
 - Ex.: Libro, book; librone, big book.

 Cása, house; casone, large house.

 Boccia, decanter; bocciona, big decanter.
- c. The most important suffixes denoting smallness are -ino, -cino, -icino, -iccino, -étto, -étto, -étlo, -cello, -icello, -arello, -erello, -otto, -úccio, -úzzo, -uolo, with their fem. -ina, etc. These endings, especially -úccio, are often used to express affection; some of them may be used to express pity or contempt. Ôtto sometimes means "somewhat large" instead of "small."
 - Ex.: Sorella, sister; sorellina, little sister.

 Bello, beautiful; bellino, pretty.

 Brútto, ugly; bruttino, rather ugly.

 Piázza, square; piazzetta, little square.

 Giòrgio, George; Giorgetto, Georgie.

Campana, bell; campantilo, little bell. Áquila, eagle; aquilotto, eaglet. Casa, house; casotta, rather large house. Giovanni, John; Giovannúccio, dear little Johnny. Pazzo, mad; pazzartila, poor mad woman. Povero, poor; poverini, poor things!

d. The ending -dccio denotes worthlessness.

Ex.: Rôba, stuff, goods; robdecia, trash.
Têmpo, weather; tempdecio, nasty weather.
Alfredo, Alfred; Alfreddecio, naughty Alfred.

- 36. Of the endings added to nouns -lno is by far the most common; the only ones that are freely used to form new compounds are -lno, "little,"-lne, "great,"-úccio, "dear," and -áccio, "bad." In very many cases endings lose their character of independent suffixes, and become inseparable parts of certain words, whose meanings they often change: as scála, "stairway"; scalino, "stair"; scalito, "ladder." Some suffixes (as -uôlo) are rarely used except in this way. Others (as -cino, -icino, -ello, -cello, -icello, -arello, -erello) cannot be attached to any word at pleasure, their use being determined by precedent or euphony.
- 37. Sometimes several suffixes are added at once to the same word: as ládro, "thief"; ladróne, "terrible thief"; ladroncéllo, "terrible little thief."

NUMERALS.

38. The cardinal numerals are: -

I, úno.	5, cinque.	9, nôve.	13, trėdic i.
2, due.	6, sêi .	10, diêci.	14, quattôrdici

18, dicibtto.	27, ventisêtte.	60, sessánta.	cinque.
19, diciannôve.	28, ventôtto or	70, settánta.	200, dugênto or
20, vėnti.	vent' ôtto.	80, ottánta.	duecênto.
21, ventúno or	29, ventinbve.	90, novánta.	250, dugênto cin-
vent' uno.	30, trênta.	100, cênto.	quánta.
22, ventidue.	31, trentúno or	101, centúno or	300, trecênto.
23, ventitrè.	trent' úno.	cent' úno.	400, quattrocênto.
24, ventiquáttro.	32, trentadüe.	105, centocinque.	1000, mille.
25, venticinque.	40, quaránta.	115, centoquindici.	2000, due mila.

Úno has a feminine úna; when used adjectively úno has the same forms as the indefinite article. The plural of mille is mila. "A million" is un milióne or millióne, of which the plural is milióni or millióni.

- (1) No conjunction is used between the different parts of a number: as dugênto quaránta, "two hundred and forty." No indefinite article is used before cênto and mille: as cênto libri, "a hundred books."
- (2) Cênto, dugênto, etc., when followed by another numeral of more than two syllables may lose the final syllable -to: as seicênto cinquánta or seicencinquánta, "six hundred and fifty."
- (3) "Eleven hundred," "twelve hundred," etc., must be rendered millecênto, mille dugênto, etc.: as mille ottocênto ottantasêtte, 1887.
- (4) "Both," "all three," etc., are tútti (fem. tútte) e dúe, tútti (fem. tútte) e tre, etc.
- a. If the noun modified by ventuno, trentuno, etc., follows the numeral, it should be in the singular; if it precedes, in the plural.

Ex.: Sessantuna lira or lire sessantuna, 61 francs.

b. In dates the definite article is prefixed to the number representing the year, if that number follows a preposition, or does not follow the name of a month.

NUMERALS.

Ex.: Nel mille ottocênto ottantasêtte, in 1887.

c. "What time is it?" is che ora è? "It is six," etc., is sono le sèi, etc., ore being understood. "One o'clock" is il tocco.

Ex.: Sóno le dúe e mêzzo, it's half-past two.

Sóno le tre e dièci, it's ten minutes past three.

Ci máncano vénti minúti álle quáttro, it's twenty minutes to four.

Sóno le cánque mêno un quárto, it's a quarter to five.

39. The ordinal numerals are:—

ıst,	primo.	I2th,	duodêcimo or	20th,	ventêsimo.
2d,	secôndo.		dêcimo secóndo.	21st,	ventêsimo primo or
3d,	têrzo.	13th,	tredicêsimo or		ventunêsimo.
۷th,	quarto.		dêcimo têrzo.	22d,	ventêsimo secôndo
5th,	quinto.	14th,	quattordicêsimo or		or ventiduêsimo.
6th,	sêsto.		dêcimo quárto.	30th,	trentêsimo.
7th,	sêttimo.	15th,	quindicêsimo or	100th,	centêsimo.
8th,	ottåvo.		decimo quinto.	101st,	centêsimo primo.
9th,	nôno.	16th,	dêcimo sêsto.	115th,	centoquindicêsimo.
10th,	dêcimo.	17th,	dêcimo sêttimo.	200th,	dugentêsimo.
11th,	undêcimo or	18th,	decimo ottávo.	1000th,	millêsimo.
	dêcimo primo.	19th,	dêcimo nôno.	2000th,	duemilêsimo.

All of them form their feminines and plurals like other adjectives in o.

Ex.: Le settantésime quinte côse, the 75th things.

a. Ordinal numerals are used after the words "book," "chapter," and the names of rulers; but no article intervenes.

Ex.: Cárlo secóndo, Charles the Second; Pio nôno, Pius IX.

Libro têrzo, Book the Third; capitolo quárto, chapter four.

b. For the day of the month, except the first, a cardinal number is used.

Ex.: Il d'i cinque d'aprile or il cinque aprile, the fifth of April.
Il primo di maggio, the first of May.

27

- c. "A third," "a fourth," "a fifth," etc., are un têrzo, un quar-to, un quinto, etc. "Half" is la metà; the adjective "half" is mêzzo.
- 40. "A couple" or "a pair" is un páio. "A dozen" is úna dozzína. The expressions úna decina, úna ventína, úna trentína, etc., un centináio, un miglidio, mean "about ten," "about twenty," etc. (see 23, d). "Once," "twice," etc., are úna vôlta, dúe vôlte, etc.

Ex.: Ún páio di scárpe, a pair of shoes. Úna cinquantina di persone, some fifty persons. L'ho visto parècchie vôlle, l've seen it several times.

EXERCISE 7.

Con l'orolôgio si véde 1 che óre sóno.2 Un giórno è 3 ventiquáttr' ore. Cêrte ore del giórno è 2 lúme, cêrte ore è 2 búio. Un giórno è 3 ventiquáttr' óre, ma súlla móstra dell' orològio, délle óre ce n' è 4 segnáte dódici, perchè le óre del giórno si cóntano 5 dall' úna álle dódici, così: tócco, dúe, tre, quáttro, cínque, sêi, sêtte, ôtto, nôve, diệci, úndici e dódici. EXERCISE 8.

A year is 1 365 days. Every seven days is 1 a week. The days of the week are-called²: Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday. Sunday³ is 1 a 4 holiday; the other days we-work, and therefore they-are-called working-days. The vear is-divided 6 into twelve months. The months are-called 2: January, February, March, April, May, June, July, August, September, October, November, December. The month is 1 thirty or thirty-one days. When the month begins,7 it-is-called8 the first of the month; the second day is-called the second of the month, the third, the third, and so-on until the thirtieth or thirty-first. January, March, May, July, August, October, and December have 10 thirty-one days. April, June, September, and November have 10 thirty days. February is 1 the shortest month, because it-has 11 twenty-eight days only.12 But every four years February has 11 twenty-nine days; and that 16 year is-called 13 leap-year. The year begins⁷ from January; January is,¹ then,¹⁴ the first month of the year. The year ends 15 with December; so 14 December is 1 the last month of the year.

DEMONSTRATIVE, INTERROGATIVE, RELATIVE. AND POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

- 41. For the indefinite pronouns, see 86-91.
- 42. (1) The demonstrative pronouns used adjectively are quésto, "this," and quéllo or cotésto, "that." Cotésto (spelled also codésto) is used of objects near the person addressed. Quésto and cotésto are inflected like other adjectives; but they generally drop o before a vowel. Quéllo is inflected like bêllo (see 29, c).

Ex.: Quest' uômo, this man; quéste ragázze, these girls.
Quel bambino, that infant; quéi fanciúlli, those children.
Quell' amico, that friend; quégli spôsi, that couple.
Quéllo zio, that uncle; quélle signôre, those ladies.

Quésto and quéllo are also used substantively for "this," "that," "this one," "that one": as fáte quésto, non fáte quéllo, "do this, don't do that."

(2) "This man" is translated by quésti, "that man" by quégli, quéi, or cotésti (rare); these words are invariable, refer only to persons, and are used only in the nominative singular. Costúi and colúi mean respectively the same as quésti and quégli, but are not defective, having a feminine singular costéi, colêi, and a plural (both genders alike) costóro, colóro. Costúi is often used in a depreciative sense.

Ex.: Quésti è francèse e quégli è tedésco, this man is French and that one is German.

Chi è costúi, who is this fellow? Párlo di colúi, I speak of that man.

- (3) Ciò, "this," "that," is invariable, and represents a whole idea, not a single word: as ciò è véro, "that's so."
- a. Quéllo and quésto, quégli and quésti mean also "the former," "the latter."
- b. "He who" is colúi che, or simply chi. "The one who, whom, which," "that which," "what" is qu'ello che or quel che.

Ex.: Chi lavóra or colúi che lavóra, he who works.

Quel che dico io, the one I mean.

A quel che sênto, from what I hear.

43. The interrogative "who," "whom," is chi. "What?" used substantively is che, che côsa, or côsa.* "What?" used adjectively is che or quále. "Which?" is quále. Quále has a plural quáli; chi and che are invariable. "How much?" is quánto (-a), "how many?" is quánti (-e).

Ex.: Chi védo, whom do I see?

Di chi parlâte, of whom do you speak?

Che côsa dice, what does he say?

Che or quâli libri avête comprâto, what books did you buy?

Quâle di quêsti volumi è il primo, which of these volumes is the first?

a. The interrogative "whose" is di chi.

Ex.: Di chi è questo biglietto, whose card is this?

b. In exclamations "what a," "what," are rendered by che or quale without any article.

Ex.: Che bel paése, what a beautiful country!

44. The principal relative pronouns are che, cúi, il quále: they are all applied to both persons and things, and mean "who, "whom," "which," or "that." Il quále is inflected ^{*} Côsa (as côsa dice?) is generally avoided in written Italian.

(la quále, i quáli, le quáli). Che and cúi are invariable: in general che is used only as subject and direct object, cúi only after prepositions or as indirect object.

Ex.: La lingua che si parla, the language which we speak.

L' uômo del quále si trátta, the man of whom we are speaking. Le persone a cúi or dlle quáli párlo, the persons to whom I speak.

Lo scritto di cui parlo, the work I am speaking of. Égli è colui, cui fu dato, he is the man to whom it was given.

- (1) As subject or direct object che is preferred to il quale, unless clearness requires the latter.
 - (2) The relative "whose" is il cúi or del quále.
 - Ex.: Úna signóra, il cúi nóme è Lucta, a lady whose name is Lucy. Un uômo, le cúi figlie conósco, a man whose daughters I know. L' autóre, del cúi libro si párla, the author whose book we are speaking of.

Le chièse délle qudli si védono le cúpole, the churches whose domes we see.

(3) The relative cannot be omitted in Italian.

Ex.: Le case che ho comprate, the houses I have bought.

a. "Such... as" is tále... quále; in poetry tále has a plural tái instead of táli. "As much as" is tánto quánto; "as many as" is tánti quánti.

Ex.: Quâle è il padre tale è il figlio, as is the father, so is the son.

b. "He who" is chi or colui che (see 42, b).

Ex.: Chi ha la sanità è ricco, he who has health is rich.

c. "Whoever" is chiúnque; "whatever" as a substantive is tútto quel che or checchè, as an adjective quâle che, qualúnque che, qualúnque, per quânto. These words, excepting tútto quel che, all take the subjunctive. Checchè is now but little used.

Ex.: Chiúnque siáte, whoever you may be.

Checche faccidte, fatelo bêne, whatever you do, do it well.

Tútto quel che volète, whatever you wish.

Quali che siano i vôstri motivi, whatever your motives may be Qualunque siano i suôi talênti, whatever his talents may be. In qualunque stato che io mi trôvi, in whatever condition I may find myself.

Per quante ricchezze egli abbia, whatever riches he may have.

45. The possessive pronouns are:—

My:	m., il mío,	f., la mía,	m. pl., i miĉi ,	f. pl., le mie.
Thy:	il tuo,	la túa,	i tuði,	le túe.
His, her, its	: il súo,	la súa,	i subi,	le súe.
Our:	il nôstro,	la nôstr a ,	i nôstri,	le nôstre.
Your:	il våstro,	la vôstra,	i vôstri,	le vôstre.
Their:	il lóro,	la loro,	i lóro,	le loro.

Lóro is invariable; the others agree with the object possessed: as il mio náso, "my nose"; la súa bócca, "his, her mouth"; i vôstri ôcchi, "your eyes"; le lóro lábbra, "their lips."

When the possessive stands alone in the predicate, the article is omitted if the possessive is used adjectively.

Ex.: Questo cappello è mio, this hat is mine.

Questo cappello è il mio, this hat is mine (i.e., the one that belongs to me).

a. The article (unless it might be used in English) is omitted before the possessive: (1) When a numeral, an adjective of quantity, or a demonstrative or interrogative adjective precedes it: as due cani sudi, "two dogs of his" (but i due cani sudi, "the two dogs of his" or "his two dogs"); molti mièi amici, "many friends of mine" (but i molti mièi amici, "the many friends of mine" or "my many friends"); quésto tho difetto, "this fault of thine."
(2) When the possessive forms part of a title: as Vostra Maestà.

"Your Majesty"; Súa Altézza, "His Highness." (3) When the possessive modifies a noun used in the vocative (in this case the possessive generally follows its noun): as amico mio, "my friend!" (4) The article is generally omitted also when the possessive precedes a noun in the singular expressing relationship: as nostra mádre, "our mother." But if the noun has a diminutive ending, or an adjective precedes the noun, the article is not omitted: as il túo fratellino, "thy little brother"; la vostra gentilissima soriella, "your kind sister." (5) The article is omitted also in certain phrases, such as: da párte mia, "for me"; per amór mio, "for my sake"; in cása nostra, "in our house"; a modo súo, "in his own way"; è cólpa vostra, "it's your fault."

b. The possessive, when not necessary for clearness, is usually replaced by a definite article.

Ex.: Côme sta la mdmma, how is your mother?

Ha perduto il giudizio, he has lost his senses.

Băttono i piedi, they stamp their feet.

c. When the name of the thing possessed is direct object of a verb, the Italians often use instead of the possessive a conjunctive personal pronoun (see 47) and a definite article. If the thing possessed be a part of the body or clothing, this construction is frequent, even when the name of the thing is not object of a verb.

Ex.: Si strappa i capelli, he tears his hair (lit., he tears to himself the hairs).

Mi idglio il dito, I cut my finger (I cut to myself the finger). Il cane gli agguanto la gamba, the dog seized his leg (seized to him the leg).

Mi duôle il capo, my head aches (to me aches the head).

- d. When the possessor is not the subject of the sentence, "his," "her" are, for the sake of clearness, often rendered di lúi, di lêi: as égli non conôsce il di lêi cuôre, "he does not know her heart."
- e. "A... of mine, of thine," etc., is un mio, un túo, etc.: as úna nôstra cugina, "a cousin of ours."

PERSONAL PRONOUNS.

46. Personal pronouns are divided into two classes. conjunctive and disjunctive: the conjunctive forms are those used as direct object of a verb, and as indirect object without a preposition; the disjunctive forms are those used as subject of a verb, and as object of a preposition.

Ex.: ÉGLI ve lo dà per ME. He to you it gives for me.

CONJUNCTIVE FORMS.

47. Conjunctive pronouns are always unaccented, and cannot be separated from the verb, which they sometimes follow but oftener precede, as will be explained in 48.

They are used only as direct object of a verb or as indirect object without a preposition. The forms are: -

Mi, me, to me.

Ti, thee, to thee.

Ci, us, to us.*

Vi, you, to you.

Si (reflexive), himself, to himself; herself, to herself; itself, to itself. Si (reflexive), themselves, to themselves.

Lo, him; * gli, to him. †

La, her; le, to her.

Li, them (masc.); lbro, to them. † Le, them (fem.); lbro, to them.

"It" must be rendered by a masculine or feminine form, according to the gender of the noun it represents. representing not a word, but a whole clause, is lo. ‡

Ex.: Mi conôsce, he knows me; ti do i libri, I give thee the books. Ci vedète, you see us; vi dico tútto, I tell you everything. Si vêste, he dresses himself; si divertono, they amuse themselves.

^{*} In old Italian and in poetry ne is often used for ci, and il for lo.

[†] In conversation li is often used for gli, and gli or li for lbro.

In certain idiomatic phrases la represents an indefinite object: as pagarla cara, "to pay dearly for it."

Écco l' òro: ve lo do, here's the gold: I give it to you. Écco la pálla: la védo, here's the ball: I see it. Côme potéva sapére se lo ventva o no? — Lo ha indovináto. — "How could he tell whether I was coming or not?" "He guessed it."

- (1) It will be seen that the third person (not reflexive) has different forms for the direct and the indirect object.
 - Ex.: Lo trovái, I found him; gli féci un regálo, I made him a present; la láscia, he leaves her; le scrive, he writes to her. Li cercáte, you seek them (masc.); le salutáte, you greet them (fem.); mandiámo lóro mille salúti, we send them (masc. or fem.) a thousand greetings.
- (2) The reflexive pronouns of the first and second persons are mi, ci; ti, vi. All plural reflexive pronouns are used also as reciprocal pronouns.
 - Ex.: Mi defendo, I defend myself; vi laváte, you wash yourselves. Si ôdiano, they hate each other; ci amidmo, we love one another.
- (3) Another conjunctive pronoun is ne,* "of it," "of them"; it corresponds also to "any," "some" when these words mean "any, some of it," "any, some of them." It is often used pleonastically in Italian.
 - Ex.: Ne párla, he speaks of it; ne ho, I have some.

 Non ne abbiámo, we haven't anŷ; ne voléte, do you want any?

 Tu ne approfitti di quésta libertà, you make good use of this liberty.
- a. Vi, "you," and ci and ne, "us," are not distinguished by form nor position from the adverbs vi, ci, meaning "there," "here," "to it," "to them,"† and the adverb ne, "thence" (see 84):* as ci vádo, "I go there"; vi è státo, "he has been there."

^{*} Cf. French en.

48. The conjunctive pronouns, except loro, immediately precede the verb: as mi vidéte, "you see me"; non lo capisco, "I don't understand him."

But when the verb is an infinitive,* a positive imperative,† a present participle, or a past participle used without an auxiliary, the pronoun follows the verb, and is written as one word with it: as per vedérlo, "to see him"; di avérlo vedúto, "to have seen him"; vedételi, "see them"; vedêndoci, "seeing us"; avêndoci vedúto, "having seen us"; vedútoti, "having seen thee." The addition of the pronoun does not change the place of the accent.

Lóro always follows the verb, but is never united to it: as égli dà lóro del víno, "he gives them some wine"; par-láte lóro, "speak to them." ‡

a. When an infinitive depends immediately (without an intervening preposition) on another verb, a conjunctive pronoun belonging to the infinitive may go with either verb: as pôsso vedérti or ti pôsso vedére, "I can see thee." If both verbs have objects, the main verb regularly takes all conjunctive pronouns: as ve lo sênto dire, "I hear you say it."

If, however, the main verb is impersonal, it cannot take the object of the infinitive: as bisógna fárlo, "it is necessary to do it."

If the main verb is f are, and the dependent infinitive has a direct object, the object of f are, if it has one, must be indirect:

^{*} Not the infinitive used—with a negative—as imperative (see 72): as non lo fare, "do not do it" (second pers. sing.).

[†] Not the negative imperative, nor the subjunctive used imperatively (see 77, a): as non li guardâte, "do not look at them"; si rêgoli, "let him moderate himself" (third pers. sing. pres. subj.).

[‡] Students should follow strictly all of these rules; but they will find that the first is, in certain cases, not always observed by good Italian writers.

as le fa avère la lèttera, "he lets her have the letter"; fáteli vedère a quel signòre, "let that gentleman see them"; dovrêi fárglielo accettáre, "I ought to make him accept it." This construction is generally used also with lasciáre, "to let," and often with sentire and udire, "to hear," and védere, "to see."

- b. When a conjunctive pronoun is joined to an infinitive, that infinitive drops its final e; if it ends in -rre, it drops -re: as farlo (fare), "to do it"; condurvi (condurre), "to conduct you."
- c. The final vowel of mi, ti, si is often, and that of lo, la is nearly always elided before a verb beginning with a vowel: as t' amo, "I love thee"; l' ho visto, "I've seen him."
- d. All conjunctive pronouns except gli and glie (see 50) double their initial consonant when added to any form of a verb that ends in an accented vowel: as dámmi (imper. da' from dáre), "give me"; dillo (imper. di' from dire), "say it"; parlerôlle (antique, for le parlerò), "I shall speak to her."
- e. Pronouns are joined to the interjection êcco, "see here," just as they are joined to the imperative of a verb: as êccomi, "here I am"; êccotelo prônto, "here it is ready for thee."
- 49. When two conjunctive pronouns come together, the indirect object precedes the direct: as mi vi presenta, "he introduces you to me"; non vuol presentarvimi, "he will not introduce me to you"; gli si presento un uômo, "a man presented himself to him."

Lóro, however, always comes last: as presentátela lóro, "introduce her to them."

Ne follows all forms except lôro: as me ne dà, "he gives me some"; dátene lôro, "give them some."

50. Mi, ti, ci, vi, si change their i to e before lo, la, li, le, ne (pronoun or adverb); and if the two words follow the verb, they are joined together: as me lo dice, "he tells me it"; ve ne domándo, "I ask you for some"; mandátecelo, "send it to us."* Gli and le ("to her") become glie before lo, la, li, le, ne, and unite with them: as gliéli mándo, "I send them to him, to her"; vôglio dárglielo, "I wish to give it to him, to her."

DISJUNCTIVE FORMS.

51. These forms are so called because they do not necessarily stand next to the verb.

Disjunctive pronouns have two cases, nominative and objective. The objective case is used only after prepositions (for exceptions, see 51, a, b).

The disjunctive forms are these: -

Io, I; me, me.

Nói, we; nói, us.

Egli, lúi, ésso, he; lúi, ésso, him.

Ella, lĉi, éssa, she; lĉi, éssa, her.

Essi, lóro (églino), they (masc.); lóro, éssi, them (masc.).

Esse, lóro (élleno), they (fem.); lóro, ésse, them (fem.).

"It" must be rendered by a masculine or feminine form, according to the gender of the noun it represents. "It" as subject of an impersonal verb is regularly not expressed (see, however, 51, h).

Ex.: La casa è grandissima, e intorno ad éssa c' è un giardino, the house is very large, and around it there is a garden.

Non è véro, it isn't true; piòve, it rains.

(1) The various pronouns of the third person are used as follows. In speaking of things the different forms of \ellsisso are generally employed. In speaking of persons \ellsisgo is

^{*} In poetry me lo, me ne, etc., often become mel, men, etc.: as tel dico, "I tell thee so"; sen torna, "he returns thence." Non to often = nol,

(or esso), ella (or essa), pl. essi, esse are used for the nominative in written Italian, but in the spoken language they are replaced by lúi, lêi, lóro; for the objective lúi, lêi, lóro are used both in conversation and in writing. Églino and elleno are antique forms.

Ex.: Queste cose sono vere anch' esse, these things are true, too. Élla parla con loro, she speaks with them.

Lêi è gióvane ma lúi è vecchio, she is young, but he is old.

Vennero da nói anch' essi, they came to us, too.

(2) As the Italian verb denotes by its endings the person and number of its subject, the personal pronouns of the nominative case are generally omitted. When expressed (for clearness, emphasis, or euphony), they may precede or follow the verb; in dependent clauses they nearly always follow. The subject of an interrogative verb usually comes after it, as in English.

Ex.: Parlidmo di l'úi, we speak of him; non vddo, I don't go.

S' to fôssi ricco côme è égli, if I were rich as he is.

(3) The disjunctive reflexive pronoun is $s\hat{e}$, which is masculine and feminine, singular and plural.

Ex.: Lo fécero da sè, they did it by themselves.

a. Use the objective case: (1) When a pronoun of the third person is not subject of an expressed verb: as beáto lúi, "happy he!" tánto i genitóri che lúi sóno ricchi, "his parents as well as he are rich." (2) When the pronoun stands in the predicate after the verb êssere: as credêndo ch' to fóssi te, "thinking I was you." But "it is I," etc., are sóno to, sêi tu, è lúi, è lêi, siàmo nói, siète vói, sóno lóro. (3) In the cases mentioned in 51, b.

b. (1) Clearness or emphasis occasionally requires the disjunctive pronoun instead of the conjunctive; in this case the conjunctive form is often inserted also.

Ex.: Párlo a với signôre, I speak to you, sir. Mi piáce ánche a me, it pleases me too.

(2) The disjunctive form must always be used when the verb has two direct or two indirect objects.

Ex.: Védo lúi e lêi, I see him and her.

Lo do a mio pádre e a te, I give it to my father and to thee.

c. In speaking of a company, a class, or a people nói áltri, vói áltri (which are also written as one word) are used for nói, vói.

Ex.: Nói áltri italiáni, we Italians. Vói áltri pittóri, you painters.

d. "With me," "with thee," "with himself, herself, themselves" are either con me, etc., or mėco, tėco, sėco.

e. "Myself," "thyself," etc., used for emphasis with a pronoun or noun, are rendered by the adjective stėsso.

Ex.: Nói stéssi la vedémmo, we saw her ourselves.

f. "One another," "each other" is l' un l' áltro.

Ex.: Ci amidmo l' un l'altro, we love one another.

g. In Florence élla is often shortened into la, which is used of both persons and things. In poetry égli becomes éi.

Ex.: La non viêne, she doesn't come.

Pare che la si pôssa tenér in mano, it looks as if it might be held in the hand.

h. In impersonal phrases like "it is" the subject, "it," is occasionally expressed in Italian; it is then translated égli, which in the spoken language is shortened into gli.

Ex.: Gli è che, it is because.

52. (1) The usual form of address in Italy is \acute{Ella} * (or \acute{ella}), objective $L\acute{e}i$ (or $l\acute{e}i$); in conversation \acute{Ella} is replaced by $L\acute{e}i$ (or $l\acute{e}i$). This word really means "it," and takes the verb in the third person; but an adjective or past participle modifying it agrees in gender with the person it represents. The plural of \acute{Ella} is $L\acute{o}ro$ (or $l\acute{o}ro$), which takes the verb in the third person plural.

Ex.: Lèi or Élla è tedésco, signòre, you are German, sir.

Signorina Néri, Lèi (or Élla) fu lascidta sóla, Miss Neri, you were left alone.

Sóno liêto che La stia bêne (see 51, g), I'm glad you are well. E Lôro, dôve vánno, and you, where are you going?

Lóro érano già partiti, you were already gone.

Signorine, loro sono molto studiose, young ladies, you are very studious.

Like other personal pronouns, $\acute{E}lla$ and $L\acute{o}ro$ are very often omitted in the nominative.

Lèi è trôppo gentile or è trôppo gentile, you are too kind. Côme stánno, how do you (pl.) do?

The conjunctive forms of $\acute{E}lla$ are La, Le (or la, le), those of $L\delta ro$ are Li, Le, $L\delta ro$ (or li, le, $l\delta ro$); they occupy the same positions and undergo the same modifications as the corresponding pronouns of the third person (see 48, 49, 50). The reflexive pronoun of $\acute{E}lla$ and $L\delta ro$ is si.

Ex.: Le promètto di visitdrla, I promise (you) to visit you.

Glièlo do, I give it to you.

La prègo d' accomoddrsi, I beg you to seat yourself.

Vidi Lèi e il bábbo, I saw you and your father (see 51, b, 2).

Dico lòro, I tell you (pl.).

^{*} Standing for Vöstra Signoria, "your lordship" or "ladyship," or some other title of the feminine gender.

Le cercdva, I was looking for you (fem. pl.).

Si divertone, signorini, are you enjoying yourselves, young gentlemen?

The possessive of Élla is Súo (or súo). See 45.

Ex.: La Súa gradita lêttera, your welcome letter.

(2) Vói is the form of address oftenest found in books; it is used sometimes in conversation also, but only toward inferiors or toward equals with whom one is on familiar terms.* It is employed for both plural and singular (like English "you"), although its verb is always plural; an adjective or participle modifying it agrees in gender and number with the person or persons it represents.

Ex.: Với qui, Piêtro, You here, Peter?

Với siête dlti tútti e dúe, you are tall, both of you.

(3) In speaking to an intimate friend, a near relative, a child, or an animal the only form of address is tu. Tu is used also, like English "thou," in poetry and poetic prose. The plural of tu is $v\delta i$.

Ex.: Ti chidmo Enrico, I call you Henry.

Dôve sêi tu, where art thou?

Vôglio vedêrvi, figliuôli miêi, my children, I wish to see you.

EXERCISE 12.

[In this exercise CARLINO and GORO use $v \delta i$; ARMANDO uses $v \delta i$ before GORO enters, $L \partial i$ afterwards.]

Carlino. Sir, we are 1 alone.

Armándo. So it seems² (looking³ around).

Carlino. I repeat 4 to you that we are 1 alone (louder).

Armándo. But I tell 5 you that I admit-it.6

Carlino. It is time to-raise the mask —

Armándo. (Oh-my⁹! this-fellow 10 has 11 recognized me.)

Carlino. And to 15 speak plainly.

Armándo. That is what I wanted 12 to 15 do, but they interrupted 13 me all-the-time. 14

Carlino. Do 15 you see 16 that grove over-there?

Armándo. I see 17 it.

Carlino. There nobody will-interrupt 18 you.

Armando. Must 19 I go there to speak (surprised)?

Carlino. We shall-go 20 together.

Enter 15 GORO with two guns.

Carlino. (Taking21 one of-them) Take22 the other.

Armándo. Thanks, I am 23 not 24 a 25 hunter.

Gôro. Take 22 it, or-else 26 — (brandishing 21 a thick club).

Armándo. Willingly — to 28 satisfy you — excuse-me, 29 is 7 ist loaded?

Carlino. To-be-brief, 90 you hate 31 me; you must 32 hate me. I hate 33 you. So 47 over-there in that grove — at eighty paces from-each-other 34 — bang! 35 Either you kill 36 me or I kill 37 you.

Armándo. But I have 38. n't 24 these sinister intentions, whichare 15 contrary to my principles.

Carlino. In that ⁵⁰ case you will-permit ⁵⁹ this-man-to-amuse-himself-by-shaking ⁶⁰ the dust from your ⁴¹ black coat with that club.

Armándo. No, indeed; what-are-you-thinking-of⁴²? It wouldbe⁴³ too much-trouble⁴⁴! ($G\delta ro\ brandishes^{45}$ the club) Be-easy⁴⁶ with the club.

Carlino. No? Then 47 Carolina must 48 be mine.

Armándo. You're-welcome-to-her.49

Carlino. In that 50 case we are friends; but be-off 51 from 52 here, do-you-understand 53?

- 54. (I) The auxiliary of the passive is essere, "to be." Ex.: Sono amato, I am loved.
- (2) The future ("shall," "will") and the conditional ("should," "would") are formed in Italian without any auxiliary.
 - Ex.: Îo andrò ed égli verrà, I shall go, and he will come. Vorrèi vedérlo, I should like to see him.

(3) The auxiliary of the perfect, pluperfect, preterite perfect, and future perfect tenses is avére, "to have," if the verb be active and transitive. If the verb be passive, reflexive, or reciprocal, the auxiliary is always éssere. If the verb be intransitive, the auxiliary is generally éssere, but sometimes avére.*

Ex.: Ho parláto, I have spoken.

Avévano fátto quéste côse, they had done these things.

Mi sôno fátto mále, I have hurt myself.

Le dônne si érano sbagliáte, the women had made a mistake.

Sard venúto. I shall have come: è nevicáto, it has snowed.

a. A past participle used with the auxiliary essere must agree with its subject in gender and number. But when the verb has a reflexive pronoun as indirect object, and some other word as direct object, the past participle may agree with the subject, or with the direct object, or remain invariable.

Ex.: La ragázsa è tornáta, the girl has returned.

Le dônne si sóno disputáte, the women have disputed.

La sorèlla si è fátta mále, our sister has hurt herself.

Ci siámo fátti onóre, we have done ourselves credit.

Ci siámo dáta (or dáto) parôla d' onóre, we have pledged our word of honor.

b. A past participle used with avere may or may not agree with. its direct object, according to the choice of the writer. It usually does not agree when the object follows; and it nearly always does agree when the object is a personal pronoun preceding the verb.

Ex.: La birra che aveva bevito (or bevita), the beer he had drunk.

Ho vedito molle cose, I have seen many things.

Li ho trovdti, I have found them.

c. "To be," expressing a state or condition, is often rendered by stare (92, 4), instead of essere. Stare per or essere per (followed by the infinitive) means "to be on the point of."

^{*} The use of avere with intransitive verbs must be learned by practice.

Ex.: Sto bêne, I'm well; côme sta, how are you? Stava per uscire, I was just going out.

d. English "am" (or "was") + the present participle, when expressing duration, is rendered either by the simple present (or imperfect) or by the same tense of ståre* + the present participle; when denoting futurity, it is translated by the future (or conditional), sometimes by the present (or imperfect).

Ex.: Cammindva, he was walking; state lavorando, you are working.

Leggévano or stavano leggéndo, they were reading.

Mêdito or sto meditándo, I am meditating.

Dice che verrà (or viêne), he says he is coming.

Disse che verrèbbe, he said he was coming.

e. A verb with the auxiliary "used to" (or "would" = "used to") is translated either by the simple imperfect, or by the infinitive with solere, "to be accustomed" (92, 14).

Ex.: Vi anddva (or solėva anddre) ogni sėra, he used to go there every evening.

f. Venire, "to come" (92, 166), and rimanère, "to remain" (92, 16), are sometimes used as auxiliaries in the simple tenses of the passive, instead of Essere. Andáre, "to go" (92, 1), is similarly used, but always implying duty or obligation.

Ex.: Il ladro vėnne arrestato, the thief was arrested.

Rimasi sorprėso, I was surprised.

Il fucile non va toccato, the gun mustn't be touched.

g. The English auxiliary "do" is not expressed in Italian.

Ex.: Non viêne, he does not come.

h. "To have a thing done" is far fare úna côsa (92, 2).

Ex.: Il re lo fèce ammazzare, the king had him killed.

^{*} Anddre (92, 1) and venire (92, 166) are sometimes used instead of stare.

55. The third person of the passive is very often replaced by the reflexive construction with si: as si raccónta, "it is related"; quésto líbro si lêgge, "this book is read"; la spáda che mi si diêde, "the sword that was given me"; quélle côse si facévano, "those things were done." Many writers always make the verb agree with its subject in number; but in popular speech the verb is nearly always in the singular when its subject follows (as if si were the subject of the verb, and the original subject were the object): as si védono (or véde) moltíssime côse, "many things are seen"; non si può (or pôssono) lêggere quésti líbri, "these books can't be read."

The construction with si is generally used also to render the English indefinite "they" followed by a verb: as sidice, "they say." In this sense it is employed with neuter as well as with transitive verbs: as si va spésso, "people often go."

See also 63, a.

- 56. Following are synopses of the compound tenses of transitive, neuter, reflexive, and passive verbs. In the paradigms given henceforth these forms will be omitted.
- a. Following is a synopsis of the compound tenses of trovare, "to find," and venire, "to come":—

Avére trováto, to have found.
Avêndo trováto, having found.
Ho trováto, I have found.
Avéva trováto, I had found.
Êbbi trováto, I had found.
Avrò trováto, I shall have found.
Avrêi trováto, I should have found.
Ábbia trováto, I have found.
Avéssi trováto, I had found.

Éssere venúto, to have come.
Essêndo venúto, having come.
Sóno venúto, I have come.
Éra venúto, I had come.
Fúi venúto, I had come.
Sarò venúto, I shall have come.
Sarèi venúto, I should have come.
Sía venúto, I have come.
Fóssi venúto, I had come.

b. Following is a synopsis of the compound tenses of alzarsi ("to raise one's self"), "to get up," and andarsene,* "to go away."

Infinitive PERFECT: Essersi alzáto. Essersene andáto. Participle PERFECT: Essêndosi alzáto. Essêndosene andáto. Indicative PERFECT: Mi sono alzáto. Me ne sóno andáto. Me ne êra andáto. Mi êra alzáto. PLUPERFECT: PRETERITE PERFECT: Mi fui alzáto, Me ne fúi andáto, FUTURE PERFECT: Mi sarò alzato. Me ne sarò andato. Conditional PERFECT: Mi sarêi alzâto. Me ne sarêi andáto. Subjunctive PERFECT: Mi sia alzato, Me ne sia andáto, PLUPERFECT: Mi fossi alzáto. Me ne főssi andáto.

c. Following is a synopsis of the entire passive of amare, "to love":—

Infinitive PRESENT: Essere amáto, to be loved.

PERFECT: Essere stato amato, to have been loved.

Participle PRESENT: Essêndo amáto, being loved.

PERFECT: Essêndo státo amáto, having been loved.

Indicative PRESENT: Sono amáto, I am loved.

PERFECT: Sono stato amato, I have been loved.

IMPERFECT: Éra amáto, I was loved.

PLUPERFECT: Éra státo amáto. I had been loved.

PRETERITE: Fúi amáto, I was loved.

PRETERITE PERFECT: Fúi státo amáto, I had been loved.

FUTURE: Sarò amáto, I shall be loved.

FUTURE PERFECT: Sarò státo amáto, I shall have been loved.

Conditional: Sarti amáto, I should be loved.

PERFECT: Sarêi státo amáto, I should have been loved.

Imperative: Sii amdto, be loved.

Subjunctive PRESENT: Sia amáto, I am loved.

PERFECT: Sia stato amato. I have been loved.

IMPERFECT: Fössi amáto, I were loved.

PLUPERFECT: Fóssi státo amáto, I had been loved.

^{*} Anddrsene is composed of the verb anddre, "to go," the reflexive si, and the adverb ne, "thence" (see 47, a).

57. "May," "might," "can," "could" are generally rendered by the proper tense of potere; * "must," "ought," "shall" = "must," "should" = "ought," by dovere; * "will" and "would" expressing volition, by volere.*

Ex.: Può èssere vèro, it may be true.

Non potèva parlare, he couldn't speak.

Dève pagarlo, he must pay him, he shall pay him.

Dovrèbbe farlo, he ought to do it, he should do it.

Vôglio sapère, I will know.

Non vorrèi andare, I wouldn't go.

No preposition intervenes between these verbs and the dependent infinitive.

Ex.: Hánno potúto dormire, they have been able to sleep.

Potrémo partíre, we shall be able to start.

Dovémmo venire, we had to come.

Dovréte trovárla, you will have to find her.

Vorrà torndre, he will want to return.

Vorrêi sapére, I should like to know.

These verbs are not defective, like the English modal auxiliaries; hence in Italian the tense is expressed by the auxiliary itself, and not by the dependent infinitive. To find the proper form of potère, dovère, or volère, replace "may," etc., by the correct tense of "to be able"; "must," etc., by "to be obliged"; "will," etc., by "to want" or "to like": as "I could have said it" = "I should have (avrêi) been able (potúto) to say it (dírlo)" = avrêi potúto dírlo.

Ex.: Avrèbbe dovúto tacère, he ought to have kept still.

Avrèmmo volúto restáre, we would have stayed.

^{*} See 92, 21, 8, 19. The auxiliary of these verbs is regularly avère; but some writers use with them the auxiliary that belongs to the dependent infinitive: as hanno potuto venire or sono potuti venire, "they have been able to come."

a. "Must" is also expressed by the impersonal verb bisognáre, "to be necessary," followed by the infinitive or by che, "that," with the subjunctive. "To have to" is avére da.

Ex.: Bisógna fárlo, it must be done.

Bisógna che andiámo, we must go.

Ho da scrivere úna lêttera, I have to write a letter.

b. "To be able" meaning "to know how" is sapère (see 92, 6). "Not to be able to help" doing a thing is non potér a méno di non (with infinitive) or non potér fáre a méno di (with infinitive).

Ex.: Non séppe fárlo, he couldn't do it.

Sa léggere e scrivere, he can read and write.

Non poté a méno di non rédere, he couldn't help laughing.

REGULAR AND IRREGULAR VERBS.

- 58. Italian verbs are divided into four conjugations, according as the infinitive ending is -áre, accented -ére, unaccented -ere (or -rre), or -íre. Regular verbs of the second and third conjugations are, however, inflected just alike.
- a. The final e of the infinitive may be dropped before any word except one beginning with s impure.*

^{*} Cf. 10, b; 14, b. Italians find it hard to pronounce three consecutive consonants of which the middle one is s.

THE REGULAR VERB.

59. Parláre, "to speak," will serve as a model for the first conjugation. All compound tenses are omitted (see 55):—

^{*} Most grammars and dictionaries class these two together as the "second conjugation."

Bâttere, compêtere, convêrgere, divêrgere, lúcere, méscere, miêtere, páscere, prúdere, ripêtere, stridere, têssere, tóndere, and their compounds do not have in the preterite the forms in parentheses.

Verbs in -cere and -gere insert after the c or g an i before the u of the past participle, but not before the o or a of the singular or third person plural of the present indicative or subjunctive: as méscere; mésco, mésci, mésce, mesciámo, mescéte, méscono; mésca, etc., méscano; mesciúto.

61. Most verbs of the fourth conjugation * are inflected like finite, "to finish":—

rire, bollire, and verbs in -vertire are generally, and assorbire, inghiottire, mentire, nutrire, tossire are often, in the present indicative, imperative, and subjunctive, conjugated after the model below. 62. The present participle of all verbs is invariable.

Ex.: Stavámo parlándo, we were speaking.

- 63. In all conjugations a form of the first person singular of the imperfect indicative ending in o instead of a is nearly always used in conversation, and occurs often in the works of modern authors: as leggévo, "I was reading."
- a. In popular speech the first person plural of all tenses is generally replaced by the third person singular preceded by si: nói áltri si créde, "we believe"; nói si êra venúti, "we had come"; ci si decise, "we decided (ourselves)."
- b. Final o of the third person plural is frequently omitted: as párlan di lúi, "they speak of him." Forms in -ánno sometimes drop -no: as dirán tútto, "they will tell everything."
- c. The imperfect indicative endings -avámo, -aváte, -evámo, -eváte, -ivámo, -iváte are often pronounced -ávamo, -ávate, etc.
- d. Occasionally, especially in poetry, -at- is omitted from the ending of the past participle of the first conjugation: destato = désto.

^{*} Compounds are conjugated like their simple verbs.

THE IRREGULAR VERB.

- 64. Certain parts of Italian irregular verbs are always regular: the example given below will show which they are. Êssere (see 53, a) is an exception to all rules.
- 65. Many irregular verbs that belong or once belonged to the third conjugation have the infinitive contracted (fáre for fácere, díre for dícere, condúrre for condúcere): in this case the future and conditional are formed from this contracted infinitive (farò, dirêi, condurrêbbe), while the present participle, the imperfect indicative and subjunctive, and certain persons of the present and preterite are formed from the uncontracted stem (facêndo, dicêva, conduciámo).
- 66. Porre (for ponere), "to put," a verb of the third conjugation, will serve to show which are the regular and which the irregular parts of irregular verbs: the forms printed in italics are regular in all verbs except dare, dire, essere, fare, stare; those in Roman type may be irregular.

It will be seen that the present participle, the imperfect indicative and subjunctive, and certain persons of the present and preterite indicative are always regular.

- (1) Dâre and stâre have in the future and conditional darò, darêi; starò, starêi. Otherwise the only irregularity in the future and conditional is that they are contracted in many verbs even when the infinitive is uncontracted: as vedère, "to see," vedrò; veníre, "to come," verrêi.
- (2) From the first person singular of the preterite the other irregular persons can be constructed, the third person singular by changing the ending i to e, the third person plural by adding -ro to the third person singular.
- (3) The regular persons of the preterite and the whole imperfect subjunctive are slightly irregular in dáre and stáre, which substitute e for a in those forms (désti, démmo, déste, déssi; stésti, stémmo, stéste, stéssi).
- (4) Dire (for dicere) and fare (for facere) have dite and fate in the second person plural of the present indicative.
- a. Verbs whose stem ends in l, n, or r often drop final e or i in the singular of the present indicative and imperative: as non vuol andáre, "he will not go"; viên qui, "come here." See also 63, a, b, c.

^{*} See 66, 3. † This rule applies only to irregular preterites.

- b. The three forms of the imperative are exactly like the corresponding persons of the present indicative, except in avère, sapère, and volère, where they follow the subjunctive (ábbi, abbiámo, abbiáte; sáppi, sappiámo, sappiáte; vôgli, vogliámo, vogliáte), and in andáre, dáre, dire, fáre, and stáre, which have in the singular va', da', di', fa', sta'.
- c. The third person plural of the present indicative can always be constructed from the first person singular, from which can be formed also the whole present subjunctive except the first and second persons plural: these come from the first person plural of the present indicative. Exceptions to this rule are andáre, avére, dáre, fáre, sapére, and stáre, which have in the third person plural of the present indicative vánno, hánno, dánno, fánno, sánno, stánno; while avére, dáre, sapére, and stáre have in the present subjunctive ábbia, día, sáppia, stía.
- 67. With the aid of the above notes any verb except Essere can be constructed from the infinitive, the participles (the present participle often being necessary to show the uncontracted form of the infinitive), the present indicative, and the first person singular of the preterite and future. A list of irregular verbs begins on page 88.
- a. In general, compound verbs not differing in conjugation from their simple verbs will be omitted from this list. All compounds of $d\acute{a}re$ and $f\acute{a}re$ are accented on the same syllable as the simple verbs: as fa, "he does"; $disf\grave{a}$, "he undoes."

The compounds of stáre demand special mention: ristáre, soprastáre, sottostáre, sovrastáre are inflected like stáre (ristá soprastêtti, sottostiano); distáre has no present participle, is regular in the present of all moods (disto, etc.), but otherwise is inflected like stáre (distêtti, etc.); constáre, contrastáre, instáre, ostáre, prestáre, restáre, sostáre are regular throughout (cônsta, contrástano, instái, ostárono, presterò, rêsti, sostássi).

- 68. In old Italian and in poetry both regular and irregular verbs differ in many ways from the normal types: some of the commonest variations are given below.
- a. In the first and third persons singular and the third person plural of the imperfect indicative v is often dropped, but never in the first conjugation: $vol\acute{e}va = vol\acute{e}a$ (also volla); fintvano = finiano. Some of these forms are not uncommon in modern prose.
- b. The conditional endings -êi, -êbbe, -êbbero are generally replaced in poetry by -ia, -ia, -iano: crederêi = crederia.
- c. The future endings $-\delta$, -ánno are sometimes replaced by -ággio or -ábbo, -ággiono or -ábbono: amerò = amerággio; ameranno = amerábhono.
- d. In the third person plural of the preterite -no or -ono is often dropped: amárono = amáro or amár (also amórno, amónno). In the third person singular we find amáo, credéo, sentto.
 - e. Final -ero is often replaced by -ono: avrêbbero = avrêbbono.
- f. In the first person plural final o is often dropped, and then the m sometimes becomes n: andiámo = andiám or andián.
- g. In the first person plural of the present indicative -iámo may be replaced by -ámo, -émo, or -imo, according to the conjugation.
- h. Final -lano, wherever it occurs (also -lano in the imperfect), may be replaced by -leno or -ilno: avieno = avieno.
- i. At the end of a word we often find e for i, sometimes i for e: pensi = pense : as coltate = as coltati.
- j. E is sometimes added to a word ending in an accented vowel: $am \hat{o} = am \hat{o}e$.

Have you ever observed what happens when a pot of water boils at the fire? The steam of the water rises like so-much smoke, and remains attached to the lid that covers the pot; when this steam has begun to cool, it becomes water once-more, and falls down again drop by drop. In-like-manner thappens with the vapors which the sun and the heat lift from the earth. The vapors rise, collect themselves on high in little bubbles, and thus united they form clouds. When these clouds are very-much charged with moisture, they resolve themselves into water; and the water, falling³ down again³ in drops where the wind carries it, forms rain.⁷ So ¹⁰ rain⁷ is-only ¹¹ steam turned-back-into ¹² water. The cloud, too, ¹³ is-only ¹¹ a quantity of steam not-very ¹⁴ dense and not-very ¹⁴ high ¹⁵ in the air. This vapor, by ¹⁶ remaining low, prevents us sometimes from-seeing ¹⁷ objects⁷ even at a ¹⁶ small distance from us.

MOODS AND TENSES.

69. The English present participle used as subject, predicate nominative, or direct object of a verb must be rendered in Italian by the infinitive, nearly always preceded by the definite article.

Ex.: Mi pidce il viaggidre, I like travelling.

Rifársela cógli animáli è da sciôcchi, taking vengeance on animals is folly.

La nôstra prima cúra fu il cercáre úna pensióne, our first care was hunting up a boarding-house.

Ôdio lo studidre, I hate studying.

70. The English present participle preceded by a preposition is translated as follows: (1) If the preposition is a necessary part of the thought, it is expressed in Italian, and the English present participle is rendered by the infinitive with the definite article. This article is, however, omitted (unless it would be used in English) after the prepositions di, "of"; dópo di, "after"; invéce di, "instead of"; príma di, "before"; sénza, "without."

Ex.: Óltre il fåre scarabbechi scrive måle, besides making blots he writes badly.

Parlái contra il trarre útile di quella disgrazia, I spoke against utilizing that misfortune.

Il vizio di fumáre, the habit of smoking.

Ho l'abitudine di coricarmi tardi, I am in the habit of going to bed late.

Invêce di dirmi tútto, instead of telling me everything. Prima di mortre, before dying.

Parlidmo sénza rifléttere, we speak without thinking.

- (2) If in English the omission of the preposition, although it made the construction awkward, would not essentially change the meaning, the phrase is rendered in Italian by the present participle without any preposition.
 - Ex.: Studiándo si impara, (through) studying we learn.

Dovrèi corrispondere alla sua cortesta ascoltandola, I ought to acknowledge her courtesy (by) listening to her.

Partendo incontrò un amico, (on) going away he met a friend. Copiándo non fa erróri, (in) copying he makes no mistakes.

- (3) "To amuse one's self by ..." and "to weary one's self by ..." are divertirs a ... and affannárs a ... with the infinitive: as si diverte a tirár sássi, "he amuses himself throwing stones." Some other verbs often take this construction.
- 71. Following are some other rules for the use of the infinitive and participles.
- a. When any verb is used as an auxiliary, the mood and tense are expressed in that verb, and not in the dependent infinitive (see 57).

Ex.: Avrèi potúto fárlo, I could have done it.

b. After fare, "to make" or "to have" (= "to cause"), sentire and udire, "to hear," and vedére "to see," the Italian present infinitive is used to render an English past participle. After lasciare, "to let," and often after the preposition da an Italian active infinitive is used to translate a passive one in English.

Ex.: Si fa capire, he makes himself understood.

Fard fare un paio di scarpe, I shall have a pair of shoes made.

L' ho sentito dire, I have heard it said.

Lo vide ammazzare, he saw him killed.

Si láscia ingannare, he lets himself be deceived.

Non c'è niênte da fare, there is nothing to be done.

- c. The Italian past participle is inflected like any other adjective. The present participle is invariable. When in English the present participle is used adjectively, without any verbal force whatsoever, it is translated, not by the participle, but by a verbal adjective, which can be formed from almost any Italian verb by changing the infinitive ending into -ánte for the first conjugation, and into -ėnte for the others. This adjective may be used substantively. Some writers have used it as a participle.
 - Ex.: Quésti vasi sono rotti, these vases are broken.

 La dônna sta cucêndo, the woman is sewing.

 Stávano parlándo, they were speaking.

 Un animale parlánte, a speaking animal.

 Ácqua bollênte, boiling water; dúe amánti, two lovers.
- d. A whole protasis is often expressed in Italian by a present participle, or by an infinitive with a.
 - Ex.: Andándovi lo vedrêbbe, if he went there, he would see it.

 A bucdrsi êsce il sángue, if you prick yourself, blood comes.
- e. Writers sometimes use, instead of a clause in indirect discourse, an infinitive followed by the word that would have been subject of the clause.
 - Ex.: Disse essere questo l'uômo che cercavamo, he said this was the man we were looking for.

72. In negative commands the infinitive is always used instead of the second person singular of the imperative.

Ex.: Trôvalo, find it; non lo trovare, do not find it.

73. When an action is represented as having taken place and still continuing, the English uses the perfect or pluperfect tense, the Italian the present or imperfect.

Ex.: Stúdio l'italiáno da ôtto mési, I have studied Italian for eight months.

74. In subordinate clauses referring to the future and introduced by a conjunction of time, where the present is often used in English, the future tense must be employed in Italian.

Ex.: Quándo vi andrò, gliélo dirò, when I go there, I'll tell him.

a. The future is often used, without any idea of future time, to express probability.

Ex.: Sarà uscito, he has probably gone out.

Avrà mólto denáro, he probably has a great deal of money.

75. The difference between the imperfect and the preterite is this: the preterite is used of an event that occurred at a definite date in the past, the imperfect is used in a description or in speaking of an accessory circumstance or an habitual action in past time—the preterite is a narrative, the imperfect a descriptive tense. The preterite perfect is used (instead of the pluperfect) only after conjunctions meaning "as soon as" (appéna che, súbito che, tôsto che), and sometimes after dópo che, "after."*

^{*} It is used also in phrases like: in clique minuti êbbe finita la lêttera, "in five minutes he had the letter finished."

Ex.: Entrò méntre dormivámo, he came in while we slept.

Facèvo così ógni mattina, I did so every morning.

Lo féce l' anno scórso, he did it last year.

Tôsto che l' êbbe visto, uscì, as soon as he had seen it, he went.

a. In conversation the perfect is often used instead of the preterite, when the event is not remote.

Ex.: Vi sóno andáto ièri, I went there yesterday.

76. The conditional, like the English "should" and "would," has two uses: in indirect discourse after a principal verb in a past tense it expresses the tense which in direct discourse would be future;* in the conclusion of a conditional sentence it is used when the protasis is (or, if expressed, would be) in the imperfect subjunctive (see 77).

Ex.: Disse che lo farêbbe, he said he would do it.

Se fósse véro lo crederêi, if it were true, I should believe it.

Quésta cása mi converrêbbe, this house would suit me.

77. When a condition is contrary to fact, or consists of a more or less unlikely supposition referring to future time,† the protasis is in the imperfect (or pluperfect) subjunctive, the apodosis in the conditional;‡ otherwise both protasis and apodosis are in the indicative.

Ex.: Se l'avéssi te lo darêi, if I had it, I should give it thee.

Se fósse tornáto l'avrêi vedúto, if he had returned, I should have seen him.

Se venisse nói ce ne andrémno, if he came, we should go. Se vi andássi morrêi, if I should go there, I should die.

^{*} The perfect of the future or the conditional is sometimes used where the simple tense would be expected: disse che non l'avrêbbe fâtto più, "he said he would do it no more."

[†] Rendered in English by the imperfect, or by the auxiliary "should."

[‡] The imperfect indicative is occasionally used to replace the imperfect or pluperfect subjunctive of the protasis and the conditional of the apodosis.

Se non è véro è ben trovdto, if it isn't true, it's a good invention. Se lo fèce sarà puntto, if he did it, he will be punished.

- a. The missing persons of the imperative are supplied from the present subjunctive. The imperfect subjunctive is used to express a wish that is not likely to be realized.
 - Ex.: Si accômodi, be seated (sing.); stiano zitti, be quiet (plur.). Sia pure, be it so; vingano súbito, let them come at once. Fósse pure, would it were so!
- b. When a relative clause restricts its antecedent to one of all its possible conditions or actions, the verb of that relative clause is in the subjunctive,—the present subjunctive if the verb on which it depends be present or future, the imperfect if it be past or conditional.
 - Ex.: Non c'è animale più bell'ino d'un gatto gibvane che faccia il chiasso, there is no animal prettier than a kitten that is at play. Dove troverète un giòvine che sposi voi, where will you find a young man who will marry you?

 Vorrèi vedère un bel quadro che non fosse antico, I should like to see a fine picture that is not old.
- c. The verb of a subordinate clause depending on an impersonal verb, on a superlative, or on one of the words "first," "last," and "only" is in the subjunctive. This rule does not apply to reflexive verbs, nor to affirmative phrases meaning "it is true" or "it is because."

Ex.: Bisognò ch' to vi anddssi, I had to go there.

È giùsto che siano puniti, it's right they should be punished.

Il più bèllo ch' to conòsca, the finest that I know.

Si vêde che non è così, you see it isn't so.

È vèro che ci sono stato, it's true that I've been there.

d. The subjunctive is used after all conjunctions meaning "although," "as if," "unless," "provided that," "in order that," "in such a way that" (denoting purpose), "before," "however," "whenever," "wherever," "without."

Ex.: Benchè stia nascosto, lo troverò, dovúnque sta, although he be hidden, I shall find him, wherever he is.

Partirò a méno che égli non vênga, I shall go unless he comes.

Lo fèce perchè io venissi, he did it that I might come.

La divise in môdo che le due parti fossero ugudli, he divided it in such a way that the two parts should be equal.

Per quanto ricco egli sia, however rich he may be.

Aspetta finche to torni, wait until I return.

- e. The subjunctive is used after the indefinite pronouns quale che, qualunque, chiunque, checchè, per quanto.
 - Ex.: Chiúnque vênga, whoever comes.

Qualunque disgrazia che succèda, whatever misfortune happens. Per quante volte ci vada, however many times I go there.

- f. The verb of an indirect question is nearly always in the subjunctive when it depends on a main verb either in a past tense or in the conditional.
 - Ex.: Domándano se il re è môrto, they ask whether the king is dead.

Domandò se il padre fósse uscito, he asked whether his father was out.

- g. In a clause dependent on a verb of saying the subjunctive is used if the main verb is negative, or interrogative, or in the conditional, or in a past tense. It is generally not used, however, after an affirmative verb in a past tense when the author himself wishes to imply that the indirect statement is true.
 - Ex.: Dice che la côsa è chiartssima, he says the thing is perfectly clear.

Non dico che questo sia vero, I don't say this is true.

Dissero che lo zio fosse ammalato, they said their uncle

Gli dissi che mi chiamdva Enrico, I told him my name was Henry.

- h. The subjunctive is used after verbs expressing causation, concession, desire, emotion, prevention, and uncertainty: i.e., after verbs of bringing about; granting, permitting; commanding, hoping, requesting, wishing; fearing, regretting, rejoicing; forbidding, hindering; being ignorant, denying, disbelieving, doubting, expecting, pretending, supposing, suspecting, thinking. But sperare, "to hope," very often does not take the subjunctive.
 - Ex.: Non so chi siano, I don't know who they are.

 Vorrèi che non fosse accadúto, I wish it had not happened.

 Supponiamo che sia prováto, let us suppose that it is proved.

 Spèro che verrà, I hope he will come.
- i. Se, "if," is occasionally omitted before an imperfect subjunctive; in this case the subject, if expressed, must follow the verb.

Ex.: Sarêi felice ventsse égli, I should be happy, should he come.

We inhabit the earth; but not all the earth has the same name everywhere: the earth is-divided into five parts, and every part has its name. The five parts of the earth are-called 1: Europe. Asia, Africa, America, Oceanica. Imagine vou-cut-open² the earth in the middle and place⁸ it on a table, in-such-a-way⁴ that the inside shall-rest⁵ on the table, and the outside shall-present⁵ itself to your eyes. You will have two circles: in the circle that lies⁶ at your right are Europe, Asia, Africa, and a part of Oceanica; in the circle that lies on-the left are America and the other part of Oceanica. But the ancients did9 not10 believe that the earth was round, nor did they know that its parts were five. They thought that the earth was flat and surrounded by the sea; they knew, moreover, 11 only 12 three parts: Europe, Asia. They never 13 would have dreamed that the earth was round, and that on 14 the side opposite to the-one 15 which they inhabited there 16 was inhabited land. America was discovered 305 years ago by an Italian who was-called 1 Christopher Columbus. Christopher Columbus was-born 17 in a village near Genoa in 1447. His parents were poor; his father earned hardly enough-to 14 support the family. However, by-dint 18 of sacrifices they had 19 him study; and as 20 Christopher studied willingly, he grew up a fine 21 boy. When it was time 22 to-choose 23 a profession, he chose tobe-a24 sailor. In 8 those times they believed that the world ended after Africa; but Columbus, on-the-contrary,²⁵ persuaded himself that the world ought²⁶ not ¹⁰ to ²⁶ end there, and that by continuing to sail, one ¹ ought²⁶ to ²⁶ turn and come-back to the same point.

CONJUNCTIONS, PREPOSITIONS, AND AD-VERBS.

CONJUNCTIONS.

78. The principal conjunctions are: -

After, dopo che. Also, anche, pure. Although, benchè, sebbêne, non ostante che. And. e. As, côme, quânto (after tânto). As (= since), siccome, poiche. As fast as, via via che. As if, come se, quási. As long as, finche. As well as, côme ânco. Because, perchè. Before, prima che, avanti che. Both . . . and, e . . . e. But. ma. Either . . . or, o . . . o. Even if, anche se, ancorchè. Except that, se non che. For, che.

However (= nevertheless), però, pure. However (before an adj.), qualunque, per quanto. If, se (rarely quando). In case, caso. In order that, perche, accioche, affinche. Much less, non che. Neither . . . nor, nè . . . nè. Nevertheless, tuttavia, nondiméno, però. Nor, nè, nemméno, neppure. Nor . . . either, nemméno, neppure. Nor even, neanche, neppure. Not to say . . . but even, non che . . . ma Or, o, ovvero, ossia. Or else, ossia. Provided that, purchè. Rather, dnzi.

Granting that, dato che.

Since (temporal), dacche.

Since (causal), poichè, siccòme.

So, dúnque, adúnque.

So that (result), di môdo che, sicchè.

So that (= in order that), perchè.

Than, che.

That (= in order that), perchè.

Then, dunque.

Therefore, dunque, però, perciò, adúnque (at the beginning of a clause).

Too, púre, ánche.
Unless, a méno che non, eccêtto che non, sénza che.
Until, finchè non.
When, quándo.
Whence, dónde.
Where, dôve, ôve, là dôve.
Wherever, dovúnque.
Whether, se.

While, mentre, mentre che.

The final vowel of ánche, che, dóve, neppúre, and óve is generally elided before e or i.

- a. Of the above conjunctions acciochè, affinchè, a méno che non, ancorchè, avánti che, benchè, cáso, côme se, dáto che, dovúnque, eccètto che non, non ostánte che, perchè meaning "in order that," per quánto, prima che, purchè, qualúnque, quási, sebbêne, and sénza che are followed by the subjunctive. For the use of che, "that," with the subjunctive, see 77, c, g, h. Côme is occasionally used for côme se, and then it takes the subjunctive. Finchè when referring to the future sometimes has the sense of finchè non, and then it generally takes the subjunctive. Se is followed by the subjunctive when it introduces an indirect question or statement dependent on a verb in a past tense, or a condition contrary to fact. Quándo meaning "if" sometimes takes the subjunctive when se would not. For examples, see 77, c, d, f, g, h.
- b. Che cannot be omitted in Italian as "that" is in English:* as disse che fosse vero, "he said it was true." Se can be omitted before an imperfect subjunctive: see 77, i.

^{*} It is omitted, however, in the following peculiarly Italian construction: il ragázzo paréva fósse felice, "the boy seemed to be happy"; that is, between a verb of seeming and the subjunctive dependent on it, when in English the construction would be a verb of seeming with a dependent infinitive. It is occasionally omitted also after verbs of wishing, hoping, and fearing: as spèro mi scriva prêsto, "I hope you will write to me soon."

c. E and o are often written ed and od before a vowel.

Ex.: Mio padre ed to, my father and I.

d. Between a verb of motion and an infinitive "and" is rendered by the preposition a.

Ex.: Andrò a cercárlo, I'll go and look for it.

e. When ánche, "also" or "too," relates to a personal pronoun, the disjunctive form of that pronoun must follow ánche, even if some form of the same pronoun has already been expressed.

Ex.: Andrémo dnche nôi, we shall go too.

Parte anch' égli, he goes away too.

Trovdi dnche lúi, I found him too.

Vénnero anch' éssi, they came too.

Lo or me lo diède anche a me, he gave it to me too.

Ti pidce dnche a te, you like it too.

PREPOSITIONS.

79. The principal prepositions are:

About (= approximately), circa. About (= around), intorno a, atthrno a. Above, sópra. According to, secondo. After, dôpo, dôpo di. Against, côntra, côntro. Along, lungo. Among, fra, tra. Around, intórno a, attórno a. As far as, fino a, sino a. As for, per, quánto a, in quánto a. As to, rispêtto a. At, a. Because of, per motivo di. Before (time), prima di, innánzi.

Before (place), davanti a, innanzi. Behind, diêtro. Below, sótto. Beside (place), accanto a. Besides, beside (= in addition to) öltre. Between, fra, tra. Beyond, ôltre, al di là di. By, da, accánto a (= beside). By means of, per mêzzo di. During, durante. Except, tránne, eccêtto, fuòri di. For, per. From, da, fin da. In, in. In front of, davanti a, innanzi.

Inside of, déntro di.
Instead of, invéce di.
In the midst of, in mêzzo a.
Into, in.
Near, vicíno a.
Of, di.
On, su (before a vowel, sur), sópra.
On this side of, al di qua di.
On to, su (before vowels, sur), sópra.
Opposite, dirimpêtto a.
Out of, da, di, fuòri di.
Outside of, fuòri di.
Over, sópra.

Round and round, torno torno a.

Since, da.

To, a.

Toward, verso.

Through, per.

Under, sotto.

Upon, su (before vowels, sur), sopra.

Up to, fino a, sino a.

With, con.

Within, fra, tra.

Within (= inside of), dentro di.

Without, senza.

Without (= outside of), fuori di.

When governing a personal pronoun cóntra, diêtro, dópo, sénza, sópra, sótto, and often fra and vêrso take di after them: as sénza di me, "without me"; fra di lóro, "among themselves." After con, in, per, a word beginning with s impure generally prefixes i*: as la stráda, "the street"; in istráda, "in the street."

a. "To" before the name of a country, after a verb of motion, is in.

Ex.: Andiámo in Fráncia, let us go to France.

b. "To" before an infinitive is rendered in Italian as follows:

(1) After the verbs bastáre, "suffice"; bisognáre, "need"; conventre, "suit"; desideráre, "desire"; dovére, "must," "ought"; fáre, "make"; lasciáre, "let"; parère, "seem"; potère, "can," "be able"; sapère, "know"; senttre, "hear," "feel"; solère, "be accustomed"; udtre, "hear"; vedère, "see"; and volère, "wish," "to" before a following infinitive is omitted. It is omitted also in exclamations and indirect questions consisting only of an interrogative and an infinitive.

^{*} Cf. 58, a.

Ex.: Dovrèi capire, I ought to understand.

Bisógna pensárci, it is necessary to look out for it.

Potrémo venire, we shall be able to come.

Vorrêi sapére, I should like to know.

Non sa che fare nè dove avvôlgersi, he doesn't know what to do nor where to turn.

- (2) After verbs of accustoming, attaining, beginning, compelling, continuing, hastening, helping, learning, preparing, teaching, and after verbs of motion, "to" before a following infinitive is a.
 - Ex.: Andránno a vedérla, they will go to see her. Si affrettò a rispondere, he hastened to reply.
- (3) After all other verbs it is di; but "to" denoting purpose or result is per, and "to" indicating duty or necessity is da.

Ex.: Gli dissi di scrtvere, I told him to write.

Mi è grato di dirlo, I am happy to say so.

Lègge per divertirsi, he reads to amuse himself.

È troppo basso per arrivarci, he's too short to reach it.

Ho qualchecôsa da fáre, I have something to do.

c. "By" denoting the agent is da.

Ex.: Fu fátto da lúi, it was done by him.

d. "In" is in; but when expressing future time it is fra.

Ex.: Fra tre giórni sarà finito, in three days it will be finished.

e. "For" is per: as l' ha fâtto per me, "he has done it for me." But in the sense of "since," in speaking of past time, "for" is da. "For," meaning "during," is omitted or translated durânte. Sentences like "it is right for him to do it" must be translated by che with the subjunctive: è giústo che lo fáccia.

Ex.: Dimôra da môlti ánni a Firênze, he has lived for many years at Florence (see 73).

Resterd cinque settimane, I shall stay for five weeks.

Piôvve durante un mêse, it rained for a month.

Bisógna ch' to váda, it is necessary for me to go.

f. "From" is da; but before adverbs and sometimes after verbs of departing it is di. In speaking of time it is generally fin da.

Ex.: È lontáno di qua, it is far from here. Èsco di cása, I go out of the house. Fin dal principio, from the beginning.

g. Da has, in addition to the meanings "by," "from," "since," another sense hard to render in English: it may be translated "as," "characteristic of," "destined for," "such as to," or "suited to," according to the context. Da means also "at the house of" or "to the house of." Da corresponds to English "on" or "at" before the word "side," parte, used in its literal sense.

Ex.: Prométto da uômo d' onôre, I promise as a man of honor.

Il Salvini da Otèllo, Salvini as Othello.

Sarèste tánto buôno da ventre, would you be so good as to come?

Quésto è da sciôcchi, this is acting like a fool.

Il bambino ha un giudizio da grande, the child has the judgment of a grown person.

La sála da pránzo, the dining-room.

Úna tázza da caffè, a coffee-cup.

L' ho vedúto dal Signór Néri, I saw him at Mr. Neri's.

Viêne da me, he comes to my house.

Da questa parte, on this side.

h. A is often used before a noun—not indicating material (which is expressed by di) nor purpose (expressed by da)—that describes another noun, when in English these two substantives would form a compound word.

Ex.: Úna mácchina a vapóre, a steam-engine. Úna sêdia a dóndolo, a rocking-chair. Úno sgabêllo a tre piêdi, a three-legged stool.

i. Essere per or stare per means "to be about to."

Ex.: Stava per parlare, he was on the point of speaking.

j. In some idiomatic phrases di is used in Italian when another preposition would be employed in English.

Ex.: Di giórno, di nôtte, by day, by night. Éssere contento di úna côsa, to be satisfied with a thing. Vivo di páne, I live on bread. Che facèva dèlle fôrbici, what did he do with the scissors?

ADVERBS.

- 80. (I) Adverbs, unless they begin the clause, are generally placed immediately after the verb; non, however, always precedes the verb. When a compound tense is used, the adverb nearly always follows the past participle, but già, mái, and sémpre usually precede it. See also 84.
 - Ex.: Non ci vádo mái, I never go there.

 Ho parláto spésso, I have often spoken.

 Non ha sèmpre parláto così, he hasn't always talked so.
- (2) Adverbs are compared like adjectives (see 31); but "better," "worse," "more," "less" are respectively mêglio, pêggio, più, méno.
- 81. "Yes" is sì or già: sì when it expresses real affirmation, già when it denotes passive assent. "No" is no. "Not" is non, after which a word beginning with s impure generally prefixes i. "Or not" at the end of a clause is o no.
 - Ex.: Le pidce quésto têmpo? Sì. "Do you like this weather?"
 "Yes."

Che tempáccio! — Già. — "What nasty weather!" "Yes." Sta bêne, he is well; non istà bêne, he isn't well. Sia vêro o no, whether it be true or not.

- a. "What?" meaning "what do you say?" is come? Che and the interjection o are often used to introduce questions.
 - Ex.: O perchè non rispondèts? Côme? Che siète sordo, signôre? "Why don't you answer?" "What?" "Are you deaf, sir?"
- b. "Very" is molto (see, however, 35, a). Instead of using a word or suffix for "very," the Italians often repeat the emphasized adjective or adverb.
 - Ex.: È mólto bêllo or è bellissimo, it is very beautiful.

 I suòi genitòri èrano pôveri pôveri, his parents were very poor.
- 82. "Only" may be translated by soltanto or solamente, or by the adjective solo; and it is often rendered by non... che, with the whole verb intervening, and with the word modified by "only" immediately after che.
 - Ex.: Non ne ho comprato che due, I have bought only two of them.
- 83. "Never" is non...mái, with the inflected part of the verb intervening. "Just," as an adverb of time, is or bra. "Early" is prêsto, per têmpo, or di buon' bra. "This morning" is stamâne; "last night" is stanôtte. "The day after to-morrow" and "the day before yesterday" are respectively domân l' âltro and ier l' âltro. "A week, a fortnight from to-day" are ôggi a ôtto, a quíndici. "Ago" is translated by fa, which follows the substantive of time; if this substantive is plural, "ago" may be rendered also by sôno (êrano or saránno if the date from which time is counted be past or future).
 - Ex.: Non ti ha mái vedúto, he has never seen thee.

 Son arriváti or óra, they have just arrived.

 Tre ánni fa, three years ago; quáttro giórni sóno, four days ago.

Ex.: Luned't erano due settimane, two weeks ago Monday.

Dománi saránno cinque mési, five months ago to-morrow.

When emphasized, "here" is qui or qua, "there" indicating a place near the person addressed is costì or costà, and "there" denoting a point remote from both speaker and hearer is lì or là.

Ex.: Cárlo vi è tornâto, Charles has gone back there.

Álla scuòla non ci vádo, I don't go to school.

Vôi rimarrète costà, égli resterà laggiù, ed to non partirò di qui, you will remain where you are, he will stay down there, and I shall not move from here.

- a. "Here I am," "here it is," etc., are êccomi, êccolo, etc.
- 85. Most adverbs of manner are formed by adding -mente to the feminine singular of the corresponding adjective. Adjectives in -le and -re drop their final e in forming the adverb. See 35, a.

Ex.: Franco, frank; francamente, frankly.
Felice, happy; felicemente, happily.
Piacevole, pleasant; piacevolmente, pleasantly.

a. "So" meaning "it" is translated lo: as lo fáccio, "I do so"; lo créde, "he thinks so"; lo dicono, "they say so."

EXERCISE 19.

Agostino è un golóso di prima riga. Cóme¹ vedéva déi confêtti, úna chícca, délle frútta, súbito se le pigliáva e mangiáva sénza permésso, ánche se non êrano súe. Infino i suôi compágni di scuôla lo rimproverávano di quésto viziáccio. La maêstra pensò di punire Agostino. Un giórno, quándo fu l' óra délla ricreazione, tirò fuôri dalla súa cassetta de' confêtti, e mettêndoli nel panière d'Agostino, gli disse²: — Quésti li porterái a cása álla túa sorellina. — Agostino a vedér que' confêtti féce6 cêrti occhióni grôssi cóme quélli d'un bôve. Non istáva più in sè⁸ dálla vôglia di mangiare que' confêtti. Êra tanto goloso, che se aveva qualcôsa di súo non dáva núlla a nessúno; êra tánto golóso, che avéva la sfacciatággine di mangiáre le côse dégli áltri; o figurátevi dúnque cóme si struggéva di mangiár que' confêtti ch' êrano nel súo panierino. Finita la refezióne, i bambini vánno nel giardino. Appéna Agostíno véde che nélla stánza dov' êrano i panieríni non c' êra nessúno, sparisce dal giardino, e vía a pigliáre i confêtti. Ma non ha finito di buttar giù il primo, che sênte un amaro, un sapóre così cattívo da non potér rêggere; spúta e rispúta, ma l' amáro non se ne andáva.⁵ Era curióso vedér Agostíno disperáto per quel saporáccio. E i compágni chi da un úscio, chi da un áltro, e chi dálla finêstra che dáva sul giardíno, stávano a vedérlo. e a rídere di quésta cêlia che la maêstra avéva fátto a quel golóso. It is related that in by-gone¹ times a parrot escaped from a villa. This parrot had learned to say all-the-time²: "Who's-there³? Who's-there³?" Having-fled⁴ into a wood, it was flying from one tree to another without knowing where to go. A peasant, who by chance was hunting⁵ in that place, eyed the parrot, and having never seen any¹⁸ birds before⁶ of this sort, he was⁷ amazed at-it,⁸ and took⁹ all-possible¹⁰ care to aim straight with his gun, so-as-to shoot-it¹¹ and carry it to show off as a rare thing. But while the peasant was aiming, the parrot, seeing⁴ him, repeated his usual question: "Who's-there³? who's-there³?" The-peasant's-blood-froze-in-his-veins¹² at those words; and lowering⁴ his gun, and taking-his-hat-from-his-head¹³ he hastened to reply to him, dreadfully¹⁴ mortified: "Excuse-me,¹⁵ for-mercy's-sake,¹⁶ I took¹⁷ you for a bird!"

INDEFINITE PRONOUNS.

86. "One," "people," "we," "you," "they," used in an indefinite sense, are rendered in Italian by the reflexive construction with si (see 55).

Ex.: Si canta bêne in Italia, they sing well in Italy.

St fa cost, you do this way; se ne parla, people speak of it.

Si fanno spesso queste cose, one often does these things.

- 87. "All" as a substantive is tútto (tútti, etc.): as tacévano tútti, "all were silent." The adjective "all," "the whole" is tútto followed by the definite article: as tútta la têrra, "the whole earth"; tútto il giórno, "all day"; tútte le române son bêlle, "all Roman ladies are beautiful."
 - 88. "Any," when it really adds nothing to the sense, is omitted: as non ha libri, "he hasn't (any) books"; voléte vino, "do you want (any) wine?" When, however, this redundant "any" might be replaced by "any of the," it is translated by the partitive genitive (see 12, a): as voléte del vino, "do you want any (of the) wine?"

"Any" used substantively in the sense of "any of it," "any of them" is ne (see 47, 3): as non ne ho, "I haven't any"; non ne ha più, "he hasn't any more"; ne avéte, "have you any?"

"Any" used adjectively and meaning "any whatsoever" is qualúnque: as lo fa mêglio di qualúnque áltra persóna, "he does it better than any other person."

89. "Some," when it adds nothing to the sense, is omitted or rendered by the partitive genitive: as voléte búrro or voléte del búrro, "will you have some butter?"

"Some" meaning "some of it," "some of them" is ne: as ne ha, "he has some."

Otherwise "some" is alcúno or quálche. Quálche is always singular (even when the meaning is plural), and is never used substantively. Ex.: alcúne persóne or quálche persóna, "some persons"; alcúni lo dícono, "some say so."

90. "Some... others," "the one... the other," "one... another" are translated by chi... chi, altri... altri, l' uno... l' altro, or alcuni... alcuni.

Alcúni used in this way is always plural. A verb whose subject is chi or áltri (used in this sense) is always singular; altri is not used after prepositions. But l' úno and l' áltro can be used in any case or number.

Ex.: Tútti, chi più tôsto, e chi meno, mortvano, all died, some sooner, some later.

Altri cade, altri fugge, some fall, others flee.

Gli uni son buôni, gli altri cattivi, some are good, others bad.

91. Following is a list of some other indefinite pronouns and adjectives:—

Anybody, qualcuno, qualcheduno, chicchessia, pronouns. Any more, più, ne . . . più, pron. Anything, qualchecôsa, pron. Anything else, áltro, pron. Both, tútti e dúe, l' úno e l' áltro, ambedúe, pron. or adj. Certain, cêrto, adj. Each, ogni, ciascuno, ognuno, adj. Either, l' uno o l' altro, pron. or adj. Every, ogni, ciascuno, ognuno, ciaschedúno, adj. Everybody, tútti (pl.), ciaschedúno, ciascúno, ognúno, pron. Everything, tútto, pron. Few, a few, pôchi (pl.), pron. or adj. However much, (or many), per quanto (-ti), adj. Little, pôco, pron. or adj. Less, méno, pron. or adj.* Many, mólti, pron. or adj.† More, più, pron. or adj.

l' uno nè l' áltro, pron. or adj. No, non . . . nessúno, non . . . alcuno, adi. Nobody, non . . . nessúno, pron. No more, non ne . . . più, pron., non . . . più, adj. None, non ne . . ., pron. Nothing, non ... niênte, non ... núlla, Nothing else, non . . . più niente, non ... più núlla, pron. Others, altrui (see 91, d), pron. Several, parécchi (fem. parécchie), pron. or adj. Somebody, qualcheduno, qualcuno, Something, qualchecôsa, pron. Such, tale, adj. Such a, un tále, adj. (but also pron. in Ital., meaning "so-and-so"). Whatever, qualunque (invariable), adj.

Neither, non . . . l' uno ne l' altro, ne

Much, mólto, pron. or adj.

^{* &}quot;Less" = "smaller" is più piccolo.

^{† &}quot;A great many" is moltissimi.

a. The verb used with nessúno, alcúno, niênte, núlla (meaning "no," "nobody," "nothing") must be preceded by non, "not," unless this pronoun or adjective precedes the verb.

Ex.: Non ho visto nessúno, I have seen nobody.

Nessún pôpolo lo possiêde, no people possesses it.

b. "Nothing" followed by an adjective is niênte di.

Ex.: Non avête niênte di buôno, you have nothing good.

- c. Ciascúno, ciaschedúno, ognúno, nessúno, and alcúno when used adjectively are inflected like úno (see 14, 15).
- d. Altrúi, "another," "others," "our neighbor," is invariable, and is not used as subject of a verb: as con altrúi, "with other people"; chi áma altrúi áma sè stésso, "he who loves his neighbor loves himself." The prepositions di and a are sometimes omitted before it: as la móstro altrúi, "I point her out to others"; la vôglia altrúi, "the will of another."

EXERCISE 21.

LIST OF IRREGULAR VERBS ARRANGED ACCORDING TO CONJUGATION.*

- 92. This list contains no compound verbs except those which differ in conjugation from their simple verbs and those for which no simple verb exists in Italian. With every verb its irregular forms are given: in the same line with the infinitive are the present participle (if it be needed to show the original form of the infinitive), the first person singular of the preterite indicative, the past participle, and the first person singular of the future indicative (if the future be contracted); immediately below are the present indicative, the imperative, and the present subjunctive, if these parts be peculiar. For dare and stare the whole preterite and the first person singular of the imperfect subjunctive are given also. Essere is irregular throughout. All tenses not mentioned are regular. Note the following rules:—
- a. If the present participle is given, the following forms, unless expressly mentioned, are to be constructed from its stem: all present and preterite forms with accented endings, and the whole imperfect indicative and subjunctive. If the present participle is not given, these forms, unless they be mentioned, are to be constructed from the stem of the infinitive.
- b. Preterites in -ái, -éi, -ti, and -étti (except détti and stétti) are regular throughout. In all other preterites the third person singular can be formed from the first person by changing final i to e, and the third person plural by adding -ro to the third person singular.

- c. If the future is not given, it is to be constructed from the infinitive. The conditional always has the same stem as the future.
- d. The imperative, when not given, is like the corresponding forms of the present indicative.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF IRREGULAR AND DEFECTIVE VERBS.

- 93. Every irregular verb in this list is followed by a number referring to the table of Irregular Verbs arranged according to Conjugation. Obsolete defective verbs that present no irregularity have not been mentioned.
- a. Compound verbs have, in general, been excluded from this list, unless they differ in conjugation from the simple verbs from which they come (see 67, a). The commonest prefixes are: a-(corresponding in meaning to the preposition a); as-(= Latin abs-); co-, com-, con-, cor- (= prep. con); contra- (= prep. contra); de-, di- (= Lat. de-); dis- (= Lat. dis-); e-, es- (= Lat. ex); i-, im-, in-, ir- (= prep. in); o- (= Lat. ob); per- (= prep. per); pre- (= Lat. prae-); pro- (= Lat. pro-); r-, re-, ri- (= Lat. re-); s- (= Lat. ex- or dis-); so-, sos-, su- (= Lat. sub); sopra-, sopr-, sor- (= prep. sopra); sott-, sotto- (= prep. sotto); stra- (= Lat. extra); tra- (= prep. tra). After several of these prefixes the initial consonant of the simple verb is generally found doubled: a + cadére = accadére. S- is sometimes combined with con-, r- with a- or in-: scoscéndere, raccogliere, rincorrere.

APPENDIX.

ADDITIONAL NOTES ON PRONUNCIATION.

[The numbers prefixed to the following notes refer to the paragraphs of the first chapter in this book.]

- r. The Tuscan names of the letters are: a, bi, ci, di, \acute{e} , $\acute{e}ffe$, gi, $\acute{a}cca$, i, $j\acute{e}$ or i lúngo, $\acute{e}lle$, $\acute{e}mme$, $\acute{e}nne$, $\emph{0}$, pi, cu, $\acute{e}rre$, $\acute{e}sse$, ti, u, vu or vi, $z\acute{e}ta$ (with z pronounced dz). They do not change in the plural. Their gender is not fixed; in general those ending in a or e are considered as feminine, the others as masculine. K, x, y are $c\acute{a}ppa$, iccase, ipsilon, all masculine.
- 2. a. The sounds \acute{a} , \acute{e} , \acute{o} , followed by a single consonant, are somewhat longer than the other vowels: for instance, in $d\acute{a}to$, $f\acute{e}ro$, δvo the accented a, e, o are longer than in $d\acute{a}ttero$, $v\acute{e}ro$, $\acute{o}ve$. Final accented vowels sound particularly short: as in $am\grave{o}$, $belt\grave{a}$, $caff\grave{e}$.
- β . In forming i the mouth should be made as broad as possible from side to side. For u and δ the lips should be puckered. For α and δ the mouth should be opened very wide.
- 3. a. If an adverb in -ménte is formed from an adjective containing \hat{e} or \hat{o} , this vowel has, in the adverb, a secondary accent, and retains its open sound: as $(br\hat{e}ve)$ $br\hat{e}vem\hat{e}nte$, "briefly"; $(n\delta bile)$ $n\delta bilm\hat{e}nte$, "nobly." Furthermore, \hat{e} and \hat{o} retain their quality in seeming compounds that consist, in reality, of two or more separate words: as $tostoch\hat{e} = t\delta stoch\hat{e} = t\delta stoch\hat{e}$, "as soon as."
- β. Preterites and past participles in -esi, -eso, -osi, -oso have a close e or o; except chiêsi (also chiési), esplôsi, esplôso, lêsi (not used), lêso.

- γ. In the suffixes -eccio (-a), -esco (-a), -esc, -essa, -etto (-a), -ezzo (-a), -mente, and -mento the e is always close; while in the diminutive suffix -ello (-a), and in the endings -ente, -enza, -erio (or -ero), and -esimo (-a) it is open: as inglése, "English"; probabilmente, "probably"; prudênte, "prudent"; ventesimo, "twentieth."
- δ. In the endings -oio, -one, -ore, and in the suffix -oso (-a) the o is close; while in the ending -orio, and in -occio (-a), -otto (-a), and -ozzo (-a), used as suffixes to nouns or adjectives, it is open: as vassoio, "tray"; amore, "love"; romitorio, "hermitage"; casotta, "good-sized house."
- e. In the following cases accented e or o may have either the close or the open sound: in Giorgio, maestra, maestro, nego (from negáre), neve, organo, scendere, senza, siete and sono (from êssere), spegnere, Stefano, vendere; and in the conditional endings -esti, -emmo, -este. The present subjunctive forms dleno, sieno, stieno are pronounced also diêno, siêno, stiêno.
- ζ . In poetry we often find ℓ for $i\ell$, δ for $u\delta$: as $ven = vi\ell ne$, "he comes"; $cor = cu\delta re$, "heart."
- 4. C. a. Between two vowels, of which the second is e or i, single e and single g are, in ordinary Tuscan speech, pronounced respectively like sh in "ship" and si in "vision": as $p\acute{a}ce$, "peace"; stagióne, "season."
- β . Between two vowels, of which the second is a, o, or u, a single c is, in popular Tuscan speech, sounded nearly like English h: as poco $(p\delta ho)$, "little"; di questa cosa (di hwésta hôsa), "of this thing." This pronunciation is regarded as vulgar.
- J. Some writers use j, except after a consonant, for the i that is pronounced y: as jeri for iêri, "yesterday"; pajo for paio, "pair." It is sometimes used also for final i in the plural of words in unaccented -io: as speechi (also speechi and occasionally speechi) for speechi, "mirrors," plural of speechio.
- z. Aside from verbs in -izzáre, z and zz have the value dz in the following words and their derivatives:—

arzíllo	frízzo	magazzíno	románzo	zêlo
azzúrro	garzóne	mánzo	ronzío	zenít
barzellétta	gazzêlla	mêzzo	rózzo	zêro
bízza	gazzétta	orizzónte	zaffíro	zêta
brézza	gónzo	ôrzo	zaffróne	zínco
b rónzo	Lázzaro	pênzolo	zanzára	zodíaco
donzêlla	lazzerétto	pránzo	zêbra	zôlla
dozzína	lázzo	ribrézzo	zêffiro	zôna

also in all derivatives of the Greek zoos, and in many uncommon words.

- 5. In pronouncing gli and gn the point of the tongue should remain behind the lower teeth: as figlio, "son"; ógni, "every."
- 6. If one of the words mentioned below, or any oxytone ending in a vowel, is closely followed by a word beginning with a consonant, this consonant is, in Tuscany, generally pronounced double. The words are:*—

а	dì, day	giù	ο§	sópra
che	di', say	ha	più	sta †
chi	e	ho	q ua	sto
ciò	è	ínfra	quálche	su
сбте	fa†	íntra	qui	te‡
cóntra	fe, faith	là	re	tra
da	fe' = féce	lì	sa	tre
dà, gives	fo	ma	se, if	tu
da', give	fra	me‡	sè	va †
do	fu	mo' = modo	sì	$vo = v\acute{a}do$
d óve	già	nè	SO	vo' = v8glio

Ex.: verrà da me domani (verràddamméddománi), "he will come to my house to-morrow." In such cases c is, of course, never pronounced like h (see 4, \mathbb{C} , β).

^{*} The materials for this list were taken from D' Ovidio's article in Gröber's Grundriss der romanischen Philologie, p. 496.

[†] Both the imperative sing. and the pres. ind. third sing.

[‡] The disjunctive form.

[§] Both the conjunction "or" and the interrogative particle.

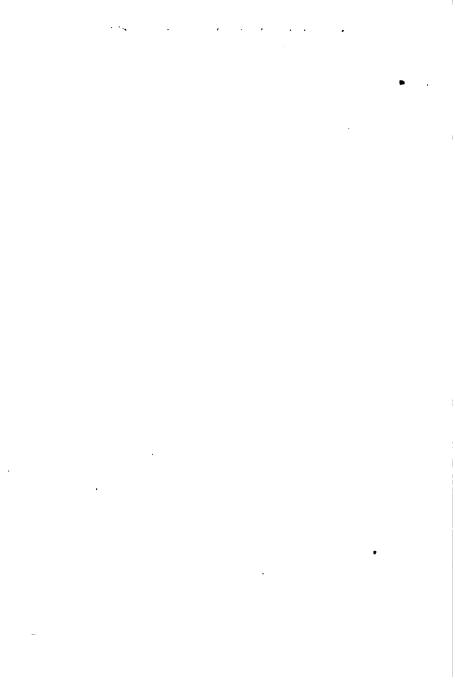

INFLECTIONS OF THE VOICE.

- 1. Italian speech is at once smoother and less monotonous than American: it is less interrupted by breathings, and it has far greater variations of pitch. In order to speak or read Italian well, an American must learn to breathe in speaking as he does in singing; he must inhale deeply at the beginning of the clause, and not stop again until he reaches the end of it. The following directions may be of use; they are based on the Tuscan pronunciation, and particularly on that of Siena.
- 2. a. The simplest inflection in a declarative sentence is as follows: at the beginning the voice is pitched low; it rises in the middle (in earnest conversation often to a falsetto), and falls again at the end. The most emphatic word generally receives the highest tone; if there are no words after it to complete the cadence, the first words of the phrase are often repeated at the end: as me lo dicono titti me lo dicono ("they all tell me so"), where the u of titti is an octave higher than the beginning and the close of the sentence.
- β . When there is a pause on some not particularly emphatic word before the main verb, that word has a slight circumflex accent, the voice rising about one semitone and falling about three: as $fu\delta ri$ di città \wedge c' è tina bellissima villa \wedge ("outside the city there's a beautiful villa"), where bellissima has the high pitch, and the a of città has the circumflex. This accent is generally heard whenever modifying clauses or phrases precede the main clause.
- γ. Almost all declarative sentences are made up chiefly of these two inflections, the long rise and fall and the short circumflex. Americans must avoid breaking up their sentences by meaningless falling tones. The fall occurs in Italian, as in English, on a very emphatic word, and at the end of a sentence. It is used, also, with a verb of saying or thinking, followed by a direct quotation; and with any word or phrase used as a vocative, except in loud calling (see 4, β): as allora chiàma Alfrèdo e gli dice \times : Bambino \times , dimmi la verità \times (Grammar, Exercise 17), where the syllables fre, bam, and dim have the highest pitch.

- 3. a. Questions to which the answer may be "yes" or "no" have either one of two circumflex accents: in the first the voice rises about five semitones and falls one; in the second, which is sometimes used in reading and in polite phrases, the voice rises and falls about an octave. Ex.: I' hái visto ("have you seen him?"), where the pitches of I' hái, vi, and sto may be represented by the notes do, fa, mi; ha bên dormito ("did you sleep well?"), where mi is an octave higher than dor and to. The former accent may be heard in the Irish pronunciation of English.
- β . These inflections are nearly always confined to the last few syllables of the sentence. In some questions, however, they appear twice, generally occurring first on the verb; and occasionally the circumflex on the verb is the only one.
- γ. Questions that cannot be answered by "yes" or "no" usually begin high, the pitch depending on the emphasis. The voice then falls, but generally rises again at the last syllable, going up about three semitones: as o côme \ hái fátto \ ("how did you do it?"). This accent is common among the Irish, and may be heard in England. The final rise is, however, often omitted, especially in very short sentences and in polite phrases: as côme sta \ ("how do you do?").
- 4. a. Exclamations of surprise begin very high, and sink rapidly: as sênti \ ("no!"); un affar di niênte \ ("you don't say so!"), where un has the main stress; per mio bacco ("I want to know!"*), with the accent on per.
- β. In calling to persons at a distance, the Tuscans sing rather than speak; the usual tune is do, la, sol, the accented syllable being highest: as Agostina ("Augustine!"); partênza ("all aboard!").

D. C. HEATH & CO, Publishers,

. . BOSTON, NEW YORK, CHICAGO AND LONDON.

A One-Year Course in German.

By OSCAR FAULHABER, Professor of Modern Languages, Phillips Exeter Academy, N.H. 168 pages. Cloth. Price, by mail, 65 cts. Intro. price, 60 cts.

INTENDED for beginners who aim at rapid sight translation. I contains graded selections of descriptive and historical prose, accompanied by a vocabulary, notes bearing on word formation, etymology, the study of synonyms, and all the essentials of regular accidence. Everything that properly belongs to a more detailed second-year course has been omitted, the main object being to supply a good vocabulary and enough grammatical training to render easy the construction of sentences in ordinary prose. It contains everything required for college entrance examination, and is adapted to any course of study in which economy of time is a necessity.

Colloquial Exercises and Select German

Reader. With notes and vocabulary. By WILLIAM DEUTSCH, of the St. Louis High School. Cloth. 367 pages. Price by mail, $1.00. Introduction price, 90 cts.

THE main portion of the book consists of anecdotes forming the bases for the Colloquial Exercises, and have proved to be an easy and sure way of acquiring the language as far as business and social purposes are concerned. The reading matter and the selections from poetry are eminently adapted for translations in the classroom; and the tables of common and peculiar phrases and idioms greatly facilitate the progress of any class or individual student.

This book is the outgrowth of many years' school-room work by one of the most successful teachers in the country and is in use in many of our leading colleges and high schools.

Hamilton Coll.: I think it is an excellent book. I shall soon use it for beginners.

H. S. White, Prof. of German, Cornell Univ.: It seems to me to be excellently adapted to its purpose.

Frederick Lutz, recent Instructor in German, Harvard Univ., now Prof. Languages, Amherst Coll.: With my beof German, Albion Coll., Mich.: After | ginners I have found it better adapted for

H. C. G. Brandt, Prof. of German, year, I can conscientiously say that it is an excellent book, well adapted to beginners. It deserves a large sale.

> Henry Johnson, Prof. of Modern Languages, Bowdoin Coll.: proved to me the excellence of the book.

H. B. Richardson, Prof. of Modern having used it at Harvard for nearly one the purpose than any book I have used.
